

Gagliardi Air Fleet Faces NDP Storm

Highways Minister Gagliardi's miniature air fleet, operating out of Patricia Bay Airport, has flown into a political thundercloud.

Opposition Leader Strachan said Wednesday the New Democratic Party will make a thorough probe of the air fleet at the next session of the legislature.

His announcement came in the wake of reports that Mr. Gagliardi intends to convert four more Beechcraft

Expeditioners from piston to turbo-prop aircraft.

And there were strong reports of a difference of opinion between Mr. Gagliardi and Premier Bennett about the future of the government's air fleet.

The highways minister was not available for comment Tuesday when the Beechcraft rumor became public, and highways officials said they had no idea where he was.

It turned out Mr. Gagliardi had

Regional Bill $23,514,000

Vast Sewer Plan Half-Century View

By TED PULFORD

A vast $23,514,000 scheme for the construction of new sewage disposal facilities in Victoria and throughout the Saanich Peninsula was unveiled Wednesday at a meeting of the Regional District Board.

The most important survey of its kind undertaken in Canada in recent years, it attempts to anticipate the needs of the area until the year 2015, a half-century away.

By that time, it is expected the population will have soared from its present 170,000 to about 420,000.

For purposes of planning and development, the area with its 100,000 acres of land and seven municipalities is to be divided into six sewerage areas. Boundaries of the area have been determined on topographical rather than political bases.

Speaking for Associated Engineering Services Ltd., the firm which produced the 231-page study, at a cost of $70,000.

(See also Pages 19, 22)

D. A. Whalen gave cost estimates based upon 1966 dollars. For Area One, Colwood-Langford-Metchosin, total cost will be $6,479,000 with an average annual cost of $307,000.

Area Two, covering Esquimalt, Colquhoun and Cordova Bay, will cost $4,784,000 a year with a total capital cost of $3,928,000.

Clover Point, to be known as Area Three, will require total capital investment of $2,217,000 over the half century covered by the study. Total average annual cost, over the construction-cost amortization period, is $129,000.

MICKLING POINT
For Area Four, covering Mickling Point and environs, capital cost will be $1,655,000 with the average annual cost set at $90,600.

Central Saanich, represented in the report as Area Five, will be expected to spend $2,844,000 at an annual average cost of $143,500.

Sidney and North Saanich, in Area Six, are faced with a capital expenditure of $1,961,000. Annual cost for the amortization period will be $103,200.

The report went on to make certain important recommendations of a more general nature.

A number of small sewage treatment plants, serving local subdivisions in central Greater Victoria, now discharge effluent into small streams and ditches. The report urges this practice be abandoned.

Local authorities should make an all-out effort to trace and eliminate unauthorized connections of storm water to their sanitary systems.

Spy-cue hero Mrkva and Czech bug

Czech Laurel and Hardy Tried Biggest Spy Bug

By ROBERT DONOVAN

WASHINGTON (LAT)—When it comes to espionage, no one can accuse the Czechoslovakian embassy in Washington of failing to think big.

Last the Russians hide microphones behind pictures in the U.S. embassy in Moscow. Let Soviet agents, as was alleged Tuesday, try to pry atomic secrets from a lieutenant-colonel working for the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

For the Czechs, however, nothing but the best — chuck the lesser stuff and "bug" the state department itself.

Try to get a secret transmitter into the very office of Under Secretary of State

George Ball and sit back and listen to what he has to say.

Slip a listening device under a brocade in the office of Raymond Lide, director of the Office of Eastern European Affairs, and tune in on the deepest U.S. secrets about that part of the world.

That is espionage par excellence — when it works. Unfortunately for the Czechs, it didn't.

The U.S. blew the whole plot wide open Wednesday, making two Czech diplomats look like Laurel and Hardy spies and making a hero out of an obscure state department official who duped them by playing the part of a double agent for four years.

Frank Mrkva, who works in the passport division, made perfect fools of Zdenek Pisek, former second secretary of the Czech embassy, and Jiri Opatrný, one of the embassy's attaches.

Together they were accused by the U.S. government of paying Mrkva a total of $3,440 for rather worthless documents and for ostensibly planting listening devices in the state department while the Federal Bureau of Investigation looked on with relief.

When the state department announced the breaking of the case, the accomplishments of this latest bit of attempted spying appeared as follows:

● Opatrný (whose name, ironically, means "careful" in Czech) was declared persona non grata and ordered to leave the U.S. within three days.

● Pisek, now a member of the Czech mission to the UN, found his espionage activities reported to Secretary-General U Thant by the state department.

● Mrkva, a tall, dark-haired, 38-year-old Kopecký war veteran, who is of Czech descent, was given a spot promotion and recommended for a state department honor award.

● The $3,440 that the Czech embassy presumably

Pearson Trips McEachen

Recess Stalls Medicare Bill

By FRASER KELLY, Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The Commons shelved medicare until the fall Wednesday after Prime Minister Pearson reluctantly pulled the rug out from under Health and Welfare Minister Alan MacEachen.

Pensions Boosted Tonight?

OTTAWA — The Commons will likely adjourn tonight not long after Health and Welfare Minister MacEachen makes another promise to the nation's old-age pensioners.

Mr. MacEachen is expected to announce his long awaited program to provide up to 25¢ a month for anyone 65 or over who is not earning $165 per month.

Mr. MacEachen promised to make the announcement before the summer recess.

After bitter political infighting, Mr. Pearson forced Mr. MacEachen to make a humiliating public retreat in order to protect House leader George McEachen.

Now the Commons is almost certain to adjourn today or Friday until the fall. The medicare bill will be given second reading, in which it is debated in principle, when the House reconvenes.

The story behind the decision not to push on is an intriguing insight into the behind-the-scenes manoeuvrings of the men in the nation's high places.

PERSONAL FAVORITE

For weeks Mr. MacEachen, who is well known to be one of Mr. Pearson's personal favorites in the cabinet, has been pushing to have the medicare bill approved before the Commons adjourns for the recess.

During much of the same time, House leader McEachen has been wheeling and dealing with opposition parties in an attempt to gain agreement on the date of adjournment.

Conservative House leader Michael Starr and Social Credit leader Bud Olsen both said Wednesday night Mr. McEachen promised them the government would not attempt to push the bill through if they would agree on an adjournment.

LAKE MEETING

Mr. MacEachen took his case to Mr. Pearson last Saturday in a meeting between the two at the prime minister's summer home at Harrington Lake.

At that meeting the prime minister promised to back Mr. MacEachen. They agreed the bill was to pass the critical second reading hurdle (approval in principle) before the House adjourned.

Mr. Pearson made the decision after a telephone call in which Mr. McEachen assured him he had made no commitment to the official opposition.

NDP ANXIOUS

Mr. MacEachen understood the Conservatives would give only token opposition to the resolution preceding first reading of the bill. He knew the New Democrats were anxious to have the bill approved before the recess.

All along New Democrat Stanley Knowles had told his Liberal counterpart they wouldn't agree to the recess until the bill was approved. In a private meeting Monday he urged Mr. McEachen to press on with the bill.

HIS DUTY

Tuesday Prime Minister Pearson flew to Newfoundland and Mr. McEachen went to Prince Edward Island. Mr. MacEachen acted as House leader.

After medicare was given first reading, it was his duty to announce the business of the House. He read a list of measures prepared for him by Mr. McEachen. Second reading of the medicare bill was not on the list.

Nevertheless Mr. MacEachen

Shots Fired

Sizzling Chicago Riots Again

CHICAGO (AP) — Two major disturbances erupted three miles apart Wednesday night on Chicago's west side, as police and Negroes exchanged gunfire and roving gangs started numerous fires.

Six shots were fired at police from a large public housing project in a near-southwest-side Negro neighborhood, while authorities attempted to halt gangs of Negroes who were throwing rocks and homemade bombs.

Police returned the fire, but apparently no one was hit.

Two shots were fired from an alley at a police car on Roosevelt Road. Officers jumped the car and three homemade bombs were thrown at them. They were not injured.

A few doors away, five bombs tossed on to the roof of a one-story garage set the structure afire. It was the fourth fire on the block.

Fire bombs landed in the midst of firemen fighting the blaze.

The violence had been quelled in the neighborhood a few hours earlier as 150 policemen, aided by a rainstorm, drove 1,000 persons into their homes. The violence erupted again after the rain stopped.

Two Negroes were shot and wounded earlier Wednesday night as police attempted to break up rampaging groups.

Dry City Dunked

BOMBAY (AP) — A shower of rain fell on Bombay Wednesday, offering the 4,500,000 inhabitants of India's largest city a brief respite from a long dry spell and raising hopes that the monsoon, now three weeks late, is at last approaching.

There was a downpour in mountains where two of the five major reservoirs that supply Bombay are situated. Evacuation of the city, due to drought, has been feared.

Millers In U.S. Cleared

OTTAWA (CP) — U.S.-owned flour mills in Canada don't sell flour to Cuba as a matter of operating policy, spokesmen for three firms said Wednesday.

They added the decision ignores the Cuban market was made by executives based in Canada, not on orders from head offices in the U.S.

The issue was raised for the second day in the Commons Wednesday and Trade Minister Weston said he was assured by officials of Quaker Oats, Robin Hood and Pillsbury that they had received no boycott-Cuba instructions from their U.S. parent firms.

Finance Minister Sharp said the U.S.-owned flour mills do not object to exporting to Russia.

Last Exit Obscene

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Court of Appeal Wednesday ruled the book Last Exit to Brooklyn obscene under the Canadian Criminal Code.

The court ruled unanimously the book was obscene under a section which defines an obscene publication as any work in which the dominant characteristic is the undue exploration of sex.

Granny, Family Sail Africa to Australia

DARWIN, Australia (Reuters) — A family of five, including a 92-year-old grandmother, which set out from Kenya in a home-made boat in January, arrived here Wednesday after crossing the Indian Ocean.

Lt.-Cmdr. George Cole, a former British Navy navigator who brought the 40-foot boat all the way from Mombasa, said he thought it was the first time the Indian Ocean had been crossed by a sailing craft from west to east.

Cole, who farmed in East Africa for 34 years before deciding to emigrate to New Zealand with his family, spent 2½ years building the boat.

The vessel carried no radio and made only two stops en route, Cocos Island and Christmas Island. The family spent 30 days sailing from Christmas Island to Darwin, and for three days were beached only 30 miles from Darwin harbor.

Granny Cole, who won a family battle to join in the voyage, said: "I like it when the sea gets rough and pushes me around."

$100,000 Ring Engages May, September

HOLLYWOOD (LAT) — Frank Sinatra and Mia Farrow are engaged, absolutely, positively. Maureen O'Sullivan, Miss Farrow's mother, made the formal announcement Wednesday in New York, saying "I couldn't be more delighted. Frank is a wonderful person and I know they'll be happy together."

The singer gave Miss Farrow a pear-shaped, nine-carat engagement ring Tuesday and then flew to London to begin work on a film. The ring's cost was estimated at $100,000 or more.

Sinatra is due to finish the film in mid-September and the wedding will take place before Christmas.

Miss Farrow, who recently quit her role as Alison MacKenzie in TV's Peyton Place, turned 21 not long ago. Her mother is 54, and thus four years older than Sinatra, who has a daughter, Nancy, who is several years older than Mia. It will be his third marriage and her first.

Rumors that the couple were secretly married went around last August when Sinatra chartered a yacht for a month-long cruise in New England waters with Miss Farrow and a large party aboard.

The rumors proved untrue and the voyage was curtailed when a crewman was accidentally drowned.

Sinatra has three children by his first wife, Nancy Barbato, and was briefly and stormily married to Ava Gardner. Mia is the eldest daughter among six children of Miss O'Sullivan and the late writer-producer John Farrow.

Sinatra has been one of the busiest and most eligible dates in the world since he divorced Miss Gardner, but was at the marriage-rumor stage only with dancer Juliet Prowse before Miss Farrow came into his life. Miss Prowse did not want to abandon her career.

Lethal Heat Layer Defies Sky Breaks

CHICAGO (AP) — Thundershowers, tornadoes and even cloudburst rains Wednesday punctured the blanket of oppressive heat that overtook most of the U.S. east of the Rocky Mountains, but they couldn't break up the three-week heat wave that has cost at least 91 lives.

The blazing sun drove the temperature past 100 for the fifth consecutive day in the St. Louis area, where 88 heat deaths have been recorded since abnormally hot weather set in June 20, the day before the official advent of summer.

For other sections of the Midwest and South, it was the sixth straight day of 100-plus heat.

In New York, the temperature hit 91 degrees, breaking by eight degrees the July 13 record set in 1954. It was the fourth time in little more than two weeks that the mercury had topped 90 degrees in the country's largest city.

Vast Sewers Scheme

While disposal of industrial wastes to the sanitary sewers is not known to result in any significant problem at the present time, the spectre of industrial pollution must be taken into careful account.

The report therefore urges local authorities to regulate, "in a uniform manner," discharge of harmful industrial wastes into local systems.

Comminution procedures, which reduce the size of solid particles in sewage, are recommended for all sewage out-announced it on the strength of his meeting with the prime minister on Saturday. The Tories furiously accused him of a breach of faith.

There were late night calls to Mr. McElraith. First thing Wednesday morning Mr. McElraith told the prime minister of the strong Tory feeling an undertaking had been broken.

HOUSE DANGER

Prime Minister Pearson realized the danger to everyone of a breakdown in relations between house leaders. Mutual understanding is absolutely necessary if any business of the house is to be passed.

There was also a Liberal caucus Wednesday in which several members opposed Mr. MacEachen's stand because they want to go home.

Prime Minister Pearson is said to have told them the issue was not the summer recess, but whether the party had given its word not to proceed. If an undertaking had been given, he said, it must be adhered to.

BACK DOWN

After the cabinet meeting, Mr. Pearson, along with Transport Minister Pickersgill met with Mr. MacEachen. They told him he would have to back down from the position he had taken in the Commons the night before.

People close to the health minister confided Wednesday night he was absolutely livid.

Certainly when he rose in the Commons it was obvious he was keeping himself under iron control.

KEY POINT

"It appears that at one point the government house leader undertook not to proceed with the second reading of the medical care bill if a terminal date for a summer adjournment had been reached."

"That undertaking may have been felt by some Hon. Members as an absolute undertaking not to proceed beyond the resolution stage."

"It appears there is some misunderstanding and that Hon. Members opposite feel that was the undertaking."

DEEP FEELING

"However, taking into account what may be a deep feeling in regard to an undertaking, the government will not insist on proceeding beyond the resolution stage," he said.

According to an indictment handed down in Newport News, Va., Whelan conspired to give the Russians data on missiles, atomic weapons, troop movements, the Strategic Air Command and other sensitive matters while he held a staff job with the joint chiefs of staff.

Field Hockey Tour Planned by Women

A holiday in Jamaica would set you on your feet, you say? A little calypso and tropical sunshine would be just what the doctor ordered? But the expense troubles you?

Well, you might try standing away with the Canadian women's field hockey team which leaves for Jamaica Thursday. The team, which included six Vancouver Island women and nine from B.C., arrives in Jamaica July 15 and will play matches July 19, 21 and 23.

Goalkeeper Joy Speight is the latest Victorian to be added to the team. She replaces Joyce Harris of Vancouver who had to withdraw because of illness.

Judy Sewell, Gwen Brockman and Gill Thomas of Vancouver round out the B.C. contingent, and two Ontario players and one from Quebec complete the Canadian team.

Misses Bradford and Sewell and Mrs. Speight are the only native-born Canadians in the B.C. group. Miss Brockman was born in Australia and the rest of the B.C. company in the United Kingdom.

The team arrives in Montego Bay July 15 and will either play a game or go on to Kingston for the Independence Celebration Tournament July 16.

It plays Jamaica July 19, an unnamed team July 21, and Jamaica again, under lights, July 23.

down to Calgary in the 520-mile-an-hour Lear jet leased recently by the government.

There he discussed the possibility of buying a bridge for Smithers, then visited the Stumede in time to see the last of the duckwagons races.

Wednesday, he told reporters in Vancouver that, while he has no positive plans now for conversion of the other Beechcraft to turbo-prop, the idea is in the back of his mind.

Meanwhile, a spokesman in the premier's office reported that, so far as Premier Bennett knew, there would be no more conversions, similar to the one completed recently at an estimated cost of $150,000.

Mr. Strachan said his party will demand details during the next session of the legislature about the fleet of eight or nine aircraft which are operated by the highways department.

We are going to take a long look at this air fleet at the next session. We are going to look at the economics of it, the necessity of it and we want to know how much it costs and what purpose it serves.

 We want to know whether or not the province needs the fleet at all and if the best interests of the province and the public pocketbook would be best served by dispensing with it altogether," Mr. Strachan continued.

He said information about the operation of the air fleet cannot be found in the Public Accounts, which are supposed to show where the government spends the taxpayers' money.

Bill Hits Tormentors

OTTAWA (CP) — Punishment of persons who harass or torment others repeatedly by telephone is provided for in a bill given first reading in the Commons Wednesday.

The bill, introduced by Barry Mather (NDP — New Westminster) amends section 315 of the Criminal Code to make crank callers liable to a fine not exceeding $500 or six months' imprisonment, or both fine and imprisonment.

Mr. Mather's bill adds "harassing calls" to "stewarming" or "indecent calls" already mentioned in the code.

Your Good Health

Constant Tiredness Can Be Arrested With Clear Mind, Food, Exercise

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is an otherwise healthy person in the middle 30s can have blood pressure cause extreme tiredness? Do Vitamin B 12 shots and exercise help? Can a troubled mind be the culprit? — M.E.S. B.S.

A healthy person does not become extremely tired; hence something is wrong, and it needs to be discovered.

It is true that low blood pressure (extremely low, not merely a bit below average, which doesn't mean much if anything) can be associated with abnormal fatigue. It is a finding, not a disease, and not a cause. Vitamin alone will not solve the situation. You have to find the basic, underlying factors.

MAJOR ELEMENTS

Low-functioning thyroid, anemia, and chronic infection are among the frequent causes, along with a multitude of less common ones which, however, would be revealed by a physical examination.

A "troubled mind" can mean many things, but yes, emotional tensions most certainly can cause chronic fatigue. Plain, extreme boredom is one of the commonest, but there are others which cause you down emotionally and become major elements in physical feelings of tiredness. A sense of inferiority or if insecurity, or habitual self-centredness, lack of interest in things and people around you, a guilty conscience, unsolved problems which sit perpetually in the back of your mind — all these and others can be involved.

SIMPLE RULES

However, attention to some very simple rules of good living habits can have tremendous effect. It's one thing to work hard, be tired, and then bounce back after a nap or a good night's sleep. But there are plenty of ambitious, intense young people who just try to do too much. The young woman with a job, and some night school classes, and a house to clean and a husband to feed, can cram too much into 24 hours. Everybody needs at least a little time for recreation and relaxation, but it's hard to convince some who have managed to survive the blistering pace for months, and can't understand why they can't keep it up forever without fatigue.

REGULAR MEALS

Eating habits don't always get the attention they deserve. The breakfast-skipper of lunch-skipper is asking for trouble, sooner or later. I have cured many a tired woman just by insisting that she start eating a breakfast with some protein in it every morning. Juice and coffee may get you started, but it doesn't stay with you. An egg, and-beacon or sausage, or other source of protein makes a difference.

Exercise is important for at least three or four reasons. It tones up both muscles and circulation; it stimulates appetite; it promotes healthy tiredness that leads to refreshing sleep; and it is excellent means of breaking off the accumulated tensions of work.

Too much of "that tired feeling" demands attention. There are things to do about it.

Brother Cries 'Frame'

CONCORD, Calif. — A retired Pentagon colonel indicted on charges of conspiracy to sell U.S. military secrets to the Russians, is the victim of a Soviet frame-up, his brother charged.

John E. Whalen said the charges against Lt. Col. William H. Whalen were the result of a "frame-up by Soviet agents to gain revenge."

Major Returns

PEKING — Mao Tse-tung, China's Communist party chairman, has ended a two-month absence from the public scene.

Major Break Seen

WASHINGTON — The first major break appeared in the airline strike negotiations Wednesday when management officials requested a recess to confer privately with federal mediators.

Income Drops

VANCOUVER — British Columbia Packers Ltd., says net income in the year ending March 31 dropped to $816,406 from $1,129,878 the previous year.

Chairman J. N. Hyland said in the company's annual report the drop in income was the re-

... result of a 27-per-cent reduction in British Columbia herring and salmon production last year.

Production in other operations was good. Filleting plants in Nova Scotia and Newfoundland increased their total production by 20 per cent.

More Trade Seen

MONTREAL — The Canada-Russia air agreement will generate more trade and traffic and increase the dialogue between the two countries, a senior executive of Air Canada said.

Claude Taylor, the airlines' general manager of marketing services, said: "We propose to start the service with one flight a week, though it is not spelled out in the contract."

Crisis Fared

SAIGON — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky Wednesday reshuffled his cabinet and brought in a Buddhist civilian as a deputy premier. But there was a question whether militant Buddhists would settle for this.

The cabinet changes came amid a new dispute between moderate and militant factions within the Buddhist hierarchy that touched off fears of another political crisis.

Strike Settled

SCHIEFFERVILLE, Que. — An official of the Quebec Federation of Labor (CLC) said Wednesday a strike by 1,900 employees of the Iron Ore Co. of Canada in northeastern Quebec and Labrador has been settled.

Pinch Costs Money

LONDON (CP) — Commonwealth countries, including Canada, may disclose today what further financial aid they can contribute to encourage Zambia to cut off remaining trade with the breakaway British colony of Rhodesia and perhaps hasten the fall of the Ian Smith regime.

Their offerings, reported meagre so far, will be reassessed at another session of the Commonwealth sanctions committee following separate appeals for help by both Britain and Zambia at a committee meeting Wednesday.

VITAL REQUEST

Mrs. Judith Hart, junior minister in the British Commonwealth office, was reported to have requested contributions for a transport aircraft to help airlift Zambian exports. An informant said she considers this request vital for the Commonwealth's future.

Both Canada and Britain supported an oil airlift for Zambia for months after Smith's white-minority government seized independence for Rhodesia last year. Though Canada has ended the airlift, a Canadian official said his government is ready to respond sympathetically to all new reasonable requests.

MADE APPEAL

Simon Kapwepwe, Zambian foreign minister, is reported to have made a separate appeal for help while emphasizing that Zambia has not come here begging with cap in hand.

McNaughton Buried

Maple Leaf On Casket

OTTAWA (CP) — With muffled drums and bugles, cannon's boom and marching feet, the capital bade farewell Wednesday to Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, wartime commander of the Canadian Army, scientist, diplomat and conservationist who died Monday.

Maple Leaf flags on ships and at military establishments in Victoria and Esquimalt were flown at half mast Wednesday in honor of Gen. McNaughton.

Governor-General Vanier, in full military uniform, and Mme. Vanier headed the crowd of government, political, diplomatic and armed forces mourners.

Prime Minister Pearson and several of his cabinet were present. Opposition Leader Diefenbaker was not in the capital and was represented by Senator M. Grattan O'Leary.

STREETS LINED

Civil servants lined many of the streets as the military units slow-marched from Christ Church Anglican Cathedral escorting the coffin, bearing the general's cap and sword and draped in a Maple Leaf flag, for burial at suburban Beechwood cemetery.

A touch of a former military age was added by a black charger, borrowed from the RCMP, with horns reversed in the stirrups and led by a gunner of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, the general's original regiment.

It'll last longer than the payment book

It takes about three years to go through a payment book.
It takes about eleven years to go through a Volvo.

That eleven years, incidentally, is based on the average life of a Volvo in Sweden, where there are no speed limits on the highways, where there are over 70,000 miles of unpaved roads, where driving is virtually a national pastime.

You may not want to keep your Volvo eleven years, but if you do, nobody will be the wiser. We don't follow the wasteful practice of making new models look different just to make old models look obsolete.

But no matter how long you keep your Volvo, you won't tire of it. A Volvo will run away from every other compact in its class, yet deliver over 30 miles to the gallon, even with automatic transmission.

Drive a Volvo Canadian at David Motors Ltd., And don't look at it merely as a superb automobile.

Look at it more as a way to get out from under car payments into swimming pool, boat, or cottage payments. After all, there's more to life than owning the newest car on the block. Even for us.

Quebec Strike Deferred

MONTREAL (CP) — Union leaders early today deferred the scheduled walkout of non-medical workers in 139 Quebec hospitals for 10 hours, sources at last-minute negotiations said.

It was learned that the walkout of the 32,000 employees had been deferred as the negotiations continued.

But it was uncertain whether the deferment order would be effective, in view of the difficulties involved in communicating the leadership's orders to the workers scattered across the province.

Premier Daniel Johnson said Wednesday the Quebec government is ready to take action against the employees if they go on strike.

Coming of Age

WITH THE ACCEPTANCE of the Vancouver into service and the launching of her sister ship, the Quadra, the Canadian Coast Guard service in the Pacific will be vastly increased in efficiency if not in numbers. Those two new vessels, built at a cost of $22,000,000, will replace the aging and obsolete war-time frigates, Stonetown and St. Catharines, which have served on the weather station far out in the Pacific since their conversion in 1950.

Quadra and Vancouver will be very much more versatile than the butted little ships they replace, for as well as carrying highly complex meteorological equipment, they will function as floating laboratories for studies in oceanography and related marine research. More than that, they will serve as navigational check points for both ships and aircraft and, in emergency, as search and rescue units.

Even more important, as far as safety at sea is concerned, is the announcement by Mr. Gordon Stead, the assistant deputy transport minister, of a $30,000,000 program for construction of six ships for a deep-sea rescue fleet.

Ottawa has recognized what Pacific Coast seafarers have long maintained: that the capacity of the vessels currently engaged in search and rescue pretty well limits them to operations in inshore waters. The new ships—two of which will ultimately be based on the Pacific Coast—will carry helicopters and so very greatly extend the area of efficient search and rescue.

Although big ships like the Camsell are part of the Coast Guard fleet, rescue is not a primary purpose. The Camsell's business is in Arctic waters, breaking a passage for shipping through the ice, tending lights and communications, and supplying outposts.

A new district marine agency headquarters at Prince Rupert provides this important fishing and shipping point with facilities long-sought and, some say, long neglected. It was opened July 2, and from here will operate the two Coast Guard ships and a helicopter which tend 14 lighthouse stations, 540 unwatched lights and hundreds of other unwatched aids to navigation in the deeply-indented northern coast area.

The progress over the years has been slow and costly, but Canada is at last equipping herself at sea to meet her responsibilities, and will make no small contribution to science in the process. Too long this country has depended upon the navy or private marine operations to respond in emergency, and while these two fleets are still dependable and available, the new shape of the Coast Guard assures an increasing degree of security for seafarers—provided by ships and crews specializing in this difficult and often dangerous area.

Indulgent B.C.

WE BRITISH COLUMBIANS may be surprised to learn that as a rule we don't care much about foreign fishing off our coast. This is because we do not regard fish as an essential part of our food supply. Who says so? Why, no other than the British Columbia News Letter, issued by the province's agent-general in the United Kingdom and the continent of Europe.

The fact that far heavier catches are made by foreign fishing fleets operating in the North Pacific area than by Canadian boats "has sparked off renewed agitation for a 12-mile boundary inside which Canada would have exclusive fishing rights," the news letter for June says. (Actually the zone is in effect, according to the federal government.)

However, the letter explains, the problem is a complex one and it may be some time before a solution satisfactory to both national and international interests can be found. Human needs have to be taken into consideration, and "some of the nations whose fishermen visit salmon areas near the coast of B.C. are vastly bigger fish eaters than British Columbians, who in economic terms esteem their fisheries as a valuable source of export revenue rather than a means of survival."

Perhaps things will change, it says, when there are many more mouths to feed in the province. But at present, with a population still less than 2,000,000, "there is a general disposition to feel indulgent about the activities of visiting fishermen."

The agent-general's publication is described as "a monthly summary of affairs in Canada's Pacific Coast province for all interested in its economic and social development."

That must include our neighbors across the Pacific, the big fish-eating countries with their far-ranging and expanding fishing fleets.

They likely will be cheered as much as British Columbians are surprised to hear of our charitable and rather careless attitude.

But they shouldn't count on it. The general disposition to feel indulgent is not so easily discerned in British Columbia as it apparently is in London.

Precarious Edge

THE hiatus that followed the Prince Edward Island election of May 30 is over. Not unexpectedly Monday's voting in the deferred riding upon which the total result depended, has gone to the Liberals who previously held the two seats in question.

In consequence the Conservative regime of Premier Shaw will make way for an administration headed by the youngest premier ever to take office in Canada.

This is a signal achievement for Mr. Alex Campbell, at 32 years a political babe compared to the man he has defeated. But the new Liberal premier-elect is the son of a former P.E.I. premier and politics is doubtless in his bones.

There will be joy among the Liberals that they are back to the government role they held continuously from 1935 to 1959. This will perforce be tempered by the minimal majority that is theirs. A narrower squeak could scarcely be likely.

Until Monday's deferred poll both parties were even at 15 seats apiece; now Mr. Campbell can command 17 seats. But he has to appoint a Speaker, which leaves him with an edge of only a single seat. A bad cold some day affecting merely one of his supporters and his government could suffer legislative upset.

More sharply than elsewhere therefore the indecisive results that have been the pattern in elections across the country of recent years will make Mr. Campbell's reign a precarious one. Fate is perhaps being hard on him. Any young man who at 32 years of age can become the foremost political figure in his province deserves better. But then he has reached the top before many others begin, which is fair enough progress.

"... of shoes, and ships, and sealing was..."
By TOM TAYLOR

WHEN he was in London recently my colleague, Harry Young, was reminded by the mayor of Hastings, where the fate of England was decided in 1066—being aware of Canada's Confederation centenary next year—that his town, famous in the annals of history, was nine times up on its toes. It is this year celebrating the 900th anniversary of the battle that put it on the historic map.

And, in sequel, from the country borough of Hastings there came this week to my colleague a booklet and other literature that has enriched this writer.

1066! Everyone in Britain and France, and those in Canada of British extraction, knows this date by heart. It is indelibly inscribed, "1066 and All That!" is a refrain as well as the title of a captivating book published a few years ago.

British history didn't begin with the Battle of Hastings, although often it seems as though it did.

The author of the aforementioned booklet in fact suggests that the effects of the Norman Conquest have reached down through the ages to North America. He postulates that the Normans created the amalgam of Saxon, Angles and Jutes and themselves—which unified and made England; that this eventuated in the British Empire of global range; that the colonization of North America was one of its English tongue dominions among 300,000,000 people—all this through the infusion of the Norman element.

Or at least he poses these developments as a query. Never to be answered, of course. But interesting although perhaps specious speculation. Had William the Conqueror stayed in Normandy the long-range outcome of history probably would have been similar.

Hastings, however, is like Canada going all out to mark its own special anniversary. There are displays, festivals, games, lectures, concerts, events of varying nature galore. And four specially outstanding exhibits.

The Hastings Embroidery—a superb 24½-ft. long tapestry showing the great happenings of British history since 1066, woven by needlework hands. The Tape-dome—a domed circular hall unique to Britain which houses the Embroidery. The Battle-field—a 286-square-ft. scale model of the Battle of Hastings with thousands of Saxon and Norman soldiers. The Conqueror's Stone—whose legend says William used to dine on after his landing.

Plus the only known accurate embroidered replica of the famous Bayeux Tapestry of the Norman invasion; the prize relic of the town Canadians fought around after D-Day of 1944.

And all this because King Harold was hit in the eye by a French arrow and rendered hors-de-combat; thereafter to be killed by Norman knights. Had he not been wounded the story might have been much different for the battle was nip-and-tuck until he fell.

And Hastings might be celebrating, not a 900-year-old conquest but the defeat of an armada. If celebrating at all, for the battle actually was a small affair.

But "1066 and All That!" has come down the years as one of the decisive engagements of history. William was so grateful he built an abbey—Battle Abbey—on the site of the battle. Abbeys and swords were twin symbols of the early warrior kings.

So Hastings is en fête. If you are crossing the Atlantic this year I judge this ancient Sussex borough should provide a fascinating visit.

IN Viet Nam the United States has now lost 280 airplanes, 4,000 men and an unknown number of prisoners—some of whom were, like Harry Young, recently drawn through the streets of Hanoi last week. Yet from the beginning there has been something extraordinary about the war in terms of American domestic opinion. It has been, as it were, both factually pervasive and personally remote.

Occasionally in an airplane the young man sitting in uniform in the next seat might confide that he was on his way to a base camp in Saigon. For a moment there would be a brief exchange of realization that this really was a nation at war—but somehow it soon got banished by the serving of the next complimentary cocktail or a cheerful message from the air hostess, thinking you for your patronage and hoping to have the opportunity of flying with you again. Would that ever apply, you would suddenly wonder, to the young man sitting in the next seat—and then promptly tell yourself not to be morbid.

For a year and more this way, in fact, essentially a surrogate war, a war in which any sense of general involvement was notably lacking. Occasionally the prevailing spirit of "out of sight, out of mind" would get taken to almost unbelievable lengths, as when the management of the Chicago Hilton refused to allow a group of wounded GIs on an outing from a local hospital into the hotel dining-room for fear of upsetting the other guests.

Perhaps even more important than the recent actual bombings around Haiphong and Hanoi has been the president's deliberate decision to challenge this mood of disassociation. In part, it is said, he blames himself for its existence.

To look back over Lyndon Johnson's campaign speeches of 1964 is to realize just how far the American commitment in Viet Nam has changed in less than two years. "We are not about to send American boys nine or ten thousand miles from home to do what Asian boys might be doing for themselves." "We don't want to get involved in a land war in Asia." "We are not going north and we are not going south"—the message throughout was loud and clear. The president intended to honor a commitment to South Viet Nam originally made by Dwight Eisenhower, but he was pledging himself to do it at minimum cost in a way that would involve the least possible risk.

Of course at the time Lyndon Johnson was running against Barry Goldwater, and the whole aim of the Democratic campaign was to paint his Republican opponent as a trigger-happy warrior who believed that force or the threat of force, could solve any international problem. As an electoral strategy it worked superbly; as a source of international misunderstanding its effects are now conceded to have been disastrous.

"Perhaps," Dean Rusk was to say later, "the Communist world did misunderstand our election campaign"—and even the president, who does not like being rebuked, had not the heart to contradict him.

But equally, too, the words that Lyndon Johnson then used had their impact on opinion at home. The war came to be seen as really little more than a national sideline, a disagreeable commitment that some young men had the misfortune to be involved in but no one else need worry about overmuch. Certainly on no account was it to be allowed to overshadow the building of a new society at home or indeed the other against military, poverty and disease that the president genuinely wanted to wage elsewhere abroad.

The net effect of it all was that last spring, with a quarter-of-a-million troops already tied up in Viet Nam, the president found himself confronted with both a nation at home and an enemy abroad that he believed the broad working masses from below."

In a country which has been ruled with a tight party grip for 21 years this sounds to the outside world—and may well sound to the Albanians—little more than the old window dressing. But two factors support the view that there is more in it.

Yugoslavia believe a reason for changes in Albania is the continuous economic crisis in the country which the regime cannot overcome so long as it remains isolated from the people and without their cooperation.

The second factor is evidence that this time the Albanian leaders mean what they say about changes. For example, soon after the circular letter went out, Prime Minister Shetu announced wholesale sackings of state and party officials, and a reduction of the number of ministries from 19 to 13 through mergers and abolitions.

All three first deputy premier posts have been abolished and the number of departments and offices within government bodies reduced from 400 to 110. Several top state job holders have been shifted to new tasks outside Tirana, the capital.

Shetu also announced a reduction in disparities in pay by cutting the salaries of highly paid officials, including state and party leaders. Laws, decrees and regulations, he said, were being revised to eliminate all that is "superfluous, alien or harmful to Albanian conditions."

Another symptom of change is that "revisionist" theories, so severely condemned in recent years, have been abolished and the Soviet Union itself, have suddenly become the subject of permitted debate in the official press.

There is no sign, however, that General Enver Hoxha, the real boss of Albania for the past 18 years, has any intention of doing what Marshal Tito did recently—that is, diminishing the power of the state security services. Articles discreetly touching on revisionist ideas may have become safe, but to abolish the secret police is something which General Hoxha himself could not consent to, and survive.

The Danger of a Rallying Cry

By ANTHONY HOWARD

warrior who believed that force or the threat of force, could solve any international problem. As an electoral strategy it worked superbly; as a source of international misunderstanding its effects are now conceded to have been disastrous.

"Perhaps," Dean Rusk was to say later, "the Communist world did misunderstand our election campaign"—and even the president, who does not like being rebuked, had not the heart to contradict him.

But equally, too, the words that Lyndon Johnson then used had their impact on opinion at home. The war came to be seen as really little more than a national sideline, a disagreeable commitment that some young men had the misfortune to be involved in but no one else need worry about overmuch.

Certainly on no account was it to be allowed to overshadow the building of a new society at home or indeed the other against military, poverty and disease that the president genuinely wanted to wage elsewhere abroad.

The net effect of it all was that last spring, with a quarter-of-a-million troops already tied up in Viet Nam, the president found himself confronted with both a nation at home and an enemy abroad that he believed the broad working masses from below."

In a country which has been ruled with a tight party grip for 21 years this sounds to the outside world—and may well sound to the Albanians—little more than the old window dressing. But two factors support the view that there is more in it.

Yugoslavia believe a reason for changes in Albania is the continuous economic crisis in the country which the regime cannot overcome so long as it remains isolated from the people and without their cooperation.

The second factor is evidence that this time the Albanian leaders mean what they say about changes. B.C. Parks Policy

ON behalf of the Victoria Fish and Game Association I have been instructed to commend your paper, and more particularly Mr. Alec Merriam, Outdoor Editor, for the article of June 3 recommending a change of portfolios between Mr. Campbell, municipal affairs minister, and the minister of recreation and conservation, Mr. Kiernan.

While there was immediate support for this move among our members, and for the very reasons stated by Alex Merriam, it was probably the better part of discretion that delayed the writing of this letter. What fairer way than to give the honorable minister an opportunity and time to rebut the arguments?

So far there has been little reply except for Resources Minister Williston chasing Mr. Merriam for supposedly stirring up public anxiety over such issues as the Stellako River log drive. Let me assure the hon. ministers that we need no stirring up when it comes to encroachment of our recreation areas!

It is one thing to create new industry, more jobs, and to expand the development of our fine province, but it is entirely another when portions of recreational areas which are but a very small part of the kind acreage, are usurped for these purposes.

With the ever increasing population, the rapid advances

To be considered for publication in whole or in part, letters must be on subjects of general interest and be signed with pen-name, and be accompanied by writer's name and address. Preference will be given to those that are brief.

In automation, more and more people will have greater time to seek out expanding recreational facilities, which these parks can abet. The profits of our labor will have little meaning without places for both our generation and those of the future to recoup their strength for the greater achievements to come.

In conclusion, may we say that fish and game clubs along with other outdoor recreational groups are by no means "anti" to every so called encroachment into the boundless tracts of our land. On the contrary, we serve as a conscience and sounding board of public opinion in these matters. Therefore, seen as not behind our backs while feeding us a few paltry crumbs from the "multi-use" cake.

It is past time that our elected representatives realized they need us, and we need them to assure us by positive action that a re-orientation of policy concerning recreation and conservation will be effected—before it is too late.

Space Needle

As a frequent and recent visitor to Victoria, I am astonished to hear of the proposal to construct a "space-needle" in the harbor area. Having known and loved the Victoria of some 30 years ago and admired, generally, its present day architecture, which has tended to enhance rather than degrade its old world charm, I am somewhat dismayed at the thought of such a blot on the landscape.

I understand that the promoters of this project claim it would be a "tourist attraction." I myself cannot think of anything more unattractive or out of keeping with the Victoria I know. The only other such towers I know of this type are the Eiffel Tower, and the Seattle Space Needle, both of which are left-overs from world's fairs and therefore for which there is some excuse. But to want to build such a tedious imitation in cold blood, and in Victoria, seems to me incredible. I would say that the average tourist coming to Victoria is looking for that atmosphere for which you are already famous around the world. If he wants futuristic architecture and atmosphere, let him find it elsewhere, where it is already established.

Old Age Pension

The need to increase the old age pension is most urgent. But I cannot agree with increasing it to $100 for everyone at 65, unless all income tax exemptions are abolished for people with net incomes of $6,000 and more who apply for it.

A better way would be to let those people have $75, if they wish. Guarantee an income of at least $125 a month (more if living alone) to people at 65 who have less than that amount, or no other income at all, with the government making up the deficit each year. I personally, would never mind completing the simple income form, which the Senate committee report on aging recommended, each year. I have read that little book and it is the finest solution to this whole problem. I recommend everyone to read it, and I hope that the government will put the recommendations into effect.

It is silly to pay such a large pension to people who do not need it, and simply give it away to their grandchildren as I know one who does.

NEEDY PENSIONER

Election System

When things go unsatisfactorily, blame the system! The results of a recent poll suggested that perhaps a majority of Canadians would favor the idea of fixed four-year terms for Parliament. Certainly the recent quick succession of elections has brought much dissatisfaction.

But a fixed term would not itself restore the desirable two-party system, nor would it ensure higher quality of leadership. Situations may develop within four years—such as the hairline majority in Britain recently—which require resolution at the earliest practicable moment. Crises calling for elections cannot be expected to appear on schedule.

An additional objection to the fixed term is the likelihood—almost the certainty—that election campaigns will be extended far beyond all necessity.

There should be sufficient elasticity in any system for deciding election dates so that these may conform to the requirements of existing circumstances. The present rules—with possibly a few minor modifications, and if handled by men of stature and judgment—will bring elections when advisable, and will see them through expeditiously.

Will Michener Succeed Vanier?

By DAVID VAN PRAAGH
From New Delhi

Canada's high commissioner to India, D. Roland Michener, leaves for Canada at the end of July on home leave.

He fully anticipates returning to India in October. But while it would not be proper for him to talk about it, he also gives the distinct impression that he would not turn down the position of governor-general when General George Vanier retires.

"I don't know how far I can cast my mind ahead — I should say less than two years," Michener, 66-year-old former speaker of the House of Commons, surmises when asked whether he expects to serve another full two years here.

Mr. Michener has given up Hindi lessons but still takes French lessons faithfully "to add a bit to my bilingual conversation."

Whether or not he talks with Prime Minister Pearson in Ottawa about the governor-generalship, Mr. Michener intends discussing with Mr. Pearson the possibility of a visit to India as part of a world tour that could be the prime minister's valedictory.

It was Mr. Pearson, a Liberal, who induced Mr. Michener, a Progressive Conservative, to leave his home and law practice and return to full-time public life as High Commissioner to India in July, 1961.

By EDWARD NEWMAN
From Hong Kong

The key figure in any Viet Nam war settlement could be the Russian bear rather than the Chinese dragon.

This is one important reason why diplomats in Asia are attaching considerable significance to the impending visit of British Prime Minister Harold Wilson to the Soviet Union July 16.

Why so much importance given to the Russian bear in an area supposed to be the dragon's domain?

For one thing, the Soviet Union and Britain are co-chairmen of the Geneva Conference which "settled" the Indochina war in 1954. Because both Hanoi and Saigon have at times mentioned a "return to the Geneva accords" as a basis for settlement, this is a logical place to look for the start of any solid peace initiatives.

Second, it is in Russia's interests that the Viet Nam conflict be settled without either a clear-cut American or Red Chinese victory.

The reasons for Moscow not wanting an American-backed South Vietnamese victory are obvious.

But neither does the Kremlin, because of the feud with Peking, want to see an outcome that would in any way be interpreted as a victory for Chinese hard-line policies.

Diplomats, and China-Russia watchers, to whom I have talked, insist that this is a valid, and perhaps the most important, factor leading up to a possible negotiated settlement.

Knowledge of the Russian position also is given as one reason why so much diplomatic activity was raised following the Americans' bombing of oil depots on the outskirts of Hanoi and Haiphong.

The Russian position has been that cessation of the bombing must be a prelude to peace talks.

Communist China's position in the Viet Nam situation is difficult and somewhat embarrassing. The Chinese have so far roundly criticized the Soviet Union for acting like a paper tiger. But China itself has done very little in the way of solid support for the North Vietnamese.

The Chinese dilemma is being heightened by the internal power struggle and purge, in which Viet Nam policies have certainly been a factor.

Diplomats in Hanoi insist that the reports of Chinese diversion and foot-dragging in delivering Russian supplies across Chinese territory to North Viet Nam are true.

Frustration is evident in the Chinese position. Peking wants North Viet Nam to win the war but does not want the Russians to gain influence or power by supplying more aid than China.

The Abused Planet

Every Breath Contains A Little Death

By JOHN BENNETT
Last of a Series

Incidents of acute air pollution can be compared with plagues and epidemics in their fatal effect on human beings.

In 1930, 60 people died during a temperature inversion in the Meuse Valley in Belgium and 6,000 people were sickened to varying degrees.

In 1948, a similar inversion killed 20 people and seriously affected the health of 43 per cent of the population of Donora, Penn.

The infamous London smog of 1952 put 4,000 people to death and choked hospitals with gasping, retching patients, in the worst air pollution disaster known to medical science.

Thousands more died of conventional diseases brought to critical levels from the foul, noxious air in London during this smog.

Five days after the inversion lifted, the death toll from bronchitis increased by 1,000 per cent; from influenza 7.30 per cent; pneumonia 48 per cent; tuberculosis 453; and high blood pressure by 294 per cent.

These three episodes are typical of acute smog-air inversions when a mass of warm air moves in over cooler air and acts as a lid, preventing pollutants from dispersing, until a critical level is reached.

Sinister Smog

But there is another and more sinister form, quite different to disasters in London, Donora and the Meuse Valley. This type is called persistent air pollution.

This takes the form of low grade contamination, difficult to perceive and changing little from day to day. It can also at times take the form of a continuing smog.

This pollution is found in all major cities with a population of one million or more. And to varying degree the health of three out of five urban North Americans is affected by persistent air pollution.

Most people believe air pollution to be simply the fumes and gases from industrial and residential smoke stacks. They labor under the mistaken belief that prime air pollution is visible.

But studies in smog-stricken Los Angeles point an accusing finger at the invisible pollutants belched from the sacred automobile.

Los Angelesans walk around in a daily precipitation of 9,000 tons of carbon monoxide, 1,180 tons of hydrocarbons, 240 tons of oxides of nitrogen, and an incredible tonnage of aldehydes, sulphur compounds, ammonia, lead and other noxious substances.

Nearly all of these pollutants are harmful to health, but Dr. Arie J. Hagen-Smit of the California Institute of Technology has proven the most irritating ingredients are produced by intense sunlight on nitrogen oxides and hydrocarbons.

Effect Universal

This photochemical effect is not confined to Los Angeles but is found wherever massed gasoline vehicles crowd an urban region.

The final report of the Ontario Select Committee on Air Pollution and Smoke Control (1957) calls for the mandatory fitting of such devices which may be developed to improve the quality of automobile exhaust.

But scientists now believe this to be a mere diversion and that the only solution is to stop producing the pollutants released by the burning of fossil fuels such as coal, oil and gasoline.

Cigarette smoking still dwarfs air pollution as a factor in lung-cancer mortality, but studies, world wide in scope, show an increasing "urban factor."

A pack a day smoker inhales about 60 micrograms of benzpyrene, a cancer producing carcinogen, each year from cigarettes.

However, a nonsmoker in Detroit inhales close to 80 micrograms and a nonsmoker in London, England, 230, or the equivalent of benzpyrene of more than five packs a day.

An idling or slow moving automobile belches about 255 micrograms of benzpyrene every minute of operation.

By CARL ROWAN
From Budapest

The desire for a Viet Nam compromise is growing rapidly within the Communist bloc, as well as in a few figures in the Hungarian Communist Party.

A peace gesture now by the United States, such as a substantial bombing pause, would be much more likely to produce a satisfactory response from Hanoi than was the case last January, he added.

The Hungarians making these remarks is not a government official but my talk with him was arranged by the foreign ministry and on the understanding he not be quoted directly. A veteran Hungarian journalist told me that the spokesmen's incidental position in the Communist Party is such that he would not have made such statements without ensuring that they were the official line.

The Hungarians began the discussion with an assertion that the dangers of a wider Viet Nam war were spreading were increasing and that "there just must be some military de-escalation. The United States must make a de-escalation gesture now."

I listed 13 gestures toward de-escalation by the United States, including the five-day and 37-day bombing pauses, and said: "Hanoi refused to respond to any of those gestures."

"You should make more gestures and see what will happen," he said. "You will find that a 37-day pause now would be a lot longer than the 37-day pause last January."

"Are you authorized by the Hungarian government to say this?" I demanded. "I mean, is there anything more behind this than your personal speculation?"

"I am not a diplomat," he replied, "so I don't have any special information. I only see the tendency. And the tendency is that the will to find a compromise is strengthening, both in Hanoi and among the other Socialist countries."

We Communists believe Hanoi's cause is 100 per cent just," he continued. "But we are not blind to reality. We know that it is unreasonable to expect the United States to capitulate completely. So we want a compromise."

"We may want it a bit more than Hanoi. The Vietnamese feel the pains of the war more than we but they don't see the worldwide dangers of it the way the other Socialist countries do."

"If this is so," I asked, "why will not some Socialist country make at least a feeble gesture toward peace?"

"The initiative must come from the United States," he insisted. "Neither Hanoi nor Moscow wants to change policy under pressure but I repeat that

Wilson Visit to Moscow Significant

Russia Key to Viet Nam Settlement

Britain's response of disapproval over the American bombing escalation was in the expected.

It moves the British closer to the Russian position without really turning a cold shoulder on American policies in South Viet Nam.

Therefore, it is quite likely that Russia and Britain, as co-chairmen, could agree that the bombings should be stopped. The next step would be to meet the American demand that if the bombings are to be halted then the Viet Cong aggression in South Viet Nam must be stopped.

In real terms, however, the Soviet Union has more leverage in the situation than China. The Soviet Union is known to want to exert influence in Southeast Asia. Moscow's next move in the Viet Nam chain of events could be a very important one.

North Viet Nam, if the signs are being read correctly, is looking for an honorable way to end the escalated fighting.

Miscalculation of Chinese intentions — they are not looking for a war but may feel they can't run away from one — is a vexing problem.

Hooked Hand Worried Truck Driver

Donald Logue said in court Wednesday that he kicked William Mizewich because he feared injury from Mizewich's hook-hand.

Logue, 3471 Seymour, pleaded not guilty in central magistrate's court to a charge of assaulting Mr. Mizewich, causing bodily harm. Judgment was reserved until Tuesday.

Mr. Mizewich, 64, said a truck passed him on the Patricia Bay Highway June 12 and stopped in front of him.

BIG SHOES
Logue was the truck driver and swore at him, Mr. Mizewich said. Logue then got out, chased him and kicked him "right between the legs with the big shoes."

Mr. Mizewich was in hospital for a week and needed an operation because of the kick, court was told.

Logue said he stopped because he was shaken from what might have been an accident when Mr. Mizewich's car pulled onto the highway in front of him.

STRUCK TWICE
He was struck twice in the chest by the steel hook hand and then invited out of the truck for a fight, Logue said.

When he went to the rear of the truck, Mr. Mizewich swung his artificial hand at him and he kicked to keep him away, Logue continued.

He then ran to his truck and was struck again before he could close his window. Mr. Mizewich followed him along the highway and later threw a tire iron at him, Logue said.

"DANGEROUS WEAPON"
Defence counsel Herbert Matthews said the hook hand was a "very dangerous weapon."

"Perhaps if Logue had not kicked out, the case might have been the other way round today," Mr. Matthews said. "The accused might have been badly mauled by the hook."

Mr. Mizewich told the court he had lost his left hand 30 years ago and had been loading lumber for 23 years.

What is a “reasonable number” of cheques?

Ever read: “no charge on a reasonable number of cheques”? At The Yorkshire, we find this provision confusing. What is a reasonable number? Who decides? That's why we have a different rule. On a Yorkshire Trust Savings Chequing Account, you may write an UNLIMITED number of personal cheques without charge. And earn an attractive 4% interest into the bargain. Is this reasonable? We'd welcome your opinion.

A black and white photograph showing the edge of a film strip. The top portion of the image displays a series of white sprocket holes against a dark background. Below the sprocket holes, there is a horizontal band of light-colored, textured material, possibly a film surface or a piece of paper. The bottom half of the image is a solid, dark, and somewhat grainy area, which could be the back of the film or a dark surface it is resting on. The overall image has a high-contrast, grainy quality typical of older film photography.

Import Recruiting Now New Problem

COURTENAY, B.C.

Lions will have at least three, perhaps five, new imports this season to go along with their five or six Canadian newcomers, and the main speculation here ever since the training camp opened is the identity of the newcomers.

While the Lions, because of a lack of quantity rather than quality, may have little trouble deciding on the 18 Canadian players they are permitted to keep, settling on the 14 imports allowed, Canadian Football League clubs is another matter.

A TOUGH THREE

Matters have progressed to the stage where, barring injury, disaster, a trade or a bad guess, there are perhaps as many as 20 newcomers who could be added to the Lions' roster. The Lions' coaching staff, headed by head coach Jim Fries, is expected to make a final selection of 14 imports by the end of the week.

Because each CFL club can use only 13 import players in any game, jobs are largely decided by what 13 starting positions can be best filled by players with a Canadian rating. Using that as a guide, the Lions will start imports at quarterback, the two halfbacks, fullback, tight end and offensive line.

That leaves a tight end, a fullback, a halfback and a quarterback to be selected from the 20 newcomers. The Lions' coaching staff is expected to make a final selection of 14 imports by the end of the week.

It was these kinds of conditions which produced a greater tension, plus the worst first-round scoring I have ever known at any golf tournament in my career.

Someone really came to grips with the place that first day and most of us spent a sleepless night wondering what in hell's name we had to do to even to return a respectable round.

Well, it was then that Nicklaus won the Open. In his hotel room he simply crumpled into his head again and again the fact that he dare not trust his woods. He must stick to the iron off the tee and play this, the greatest of all the Championships, like a little old lady taking a putter from 50 yards off the green.

As I said, it must have been the most frustrating experience of his life. For four whole days he had to keep his foot off the accelerator. And, as any man who can drive 200 yards knows, it's a fearful struggle to settle for an iron and 240 yards or so.

It's such a colossal strike, of course, that he was still on the green at a 500 yard-hole on one occasion with two ones. Nevertheless, it was this sheer self-discipline that won him the Open.

Nicklaus has made himself into the greatest golfer the world has ever seen. But I didn't think, quite honestly, he would prove it so swiftly in Britain.

I know that in the end he won it by only a single shot from Dave Thomas and Doug Sanders. But his thinking was always a hundred years ahead of everyone else.

It always grieves me to see the British Open title go abroad but perhaps this is misplaced when you see a performance of this brilliance.

Nicklaus now has no honor left to win in the game and my congratulations to him are totally unrestrained, unqualified and sincere.

His self-discipline, in the conditions, made his victory one of the greatest achievements it has ever been my pleasure to watch.

So we come back to the eternal question: When IS Britain ever going to produce another Open champion?

Heaven knows! Britain lost this one again in two places—on the putting greens and in the mind.

We British golfers simply do NOT think in sufficiently ruthless terms when it comes to scoring.

Let me give you an example:

In my last practice round I was playing with the great Australian, Peter Thomson. In 18 holes he took TWENTY-SIX putts—form which would have won him the title for the sixth time by 10 clear shots if he could have repeated it in the event itself.

But what staggered me was his mental approach to putting. In our first 10 holes he sank six putts of between 12 and 14 feet without so much as a murmur of surprise.

Then a 16-footer across a sloping green lipped the hole and stayed out. Thomson looked fearfully annoyed.

But the climax came when he had a putt of some 30 feet with a borrow that made it like putting across the Chilterns. Thomson sized it up from both sides of the hole, examined every blade of grass between ball and hole, stood up straight, came across to me and said: "You know, Max, I don't think I'm going to get this one in."

He didn't. It finished two inches wide of the right lip!

Now I just don't know one British golfer who would have attacked any of those holes with the absolute self-assurance that the putt WOULD drop.

We'd have been pushing them up, happy to be left with a two-footer to get down in two.

That's the difference between negative and positive thinking at the very highest levels of tournament golf. And British thinking remains negative.

Don't ask me how we're going to change. It isn't hunger that produces champions these days.

Nicklaus has made so much money out of golf, he could buy an Aston-Martin for every day of the year and not feel the difference in his wallet.

The toll top-level, big-money golf takes on a man's nerve, of course, is terrible. Next week I'll tell you of the sheer mental torture that golf has become for one of the very biggest names in the game.

But not this week.

This week belongs to Jack Nicklaus—the guy they call the Golden Bear: the man who has just proved to Britain at last that he truly is the greatest player this little planet of ours has ever seen.

On defence, it should be at end, the two linebacking spots and three backs.

At least seven, probably nine and perhaps 10 of the 13 starting import jobs will be taken from the 13-man holdover contingent.

Joe Kapp and Willie Fleming, of course, are set at quarterback and halfback and no one is likely to deny that Ken Sugam will keep his tackle job on offense. On defence, end Mike Martin, linebacker Gary Porter and backs Steve Stiles and Ernie Allen, the likely back-up quarterback, can be counted on.

TWO MORE 'INS'

To those seven one can probably add fullback Bill Munsey and halfback Amos Bullocks although both are getting quite an argument.

Munsey, a 25-year-old, 200-pounder who played his college football at University of Wyoming, has had two seasons of professional football with the San Francisco 49ers last year. When Profit was held back by an early injury, Dave Moton, a tough, 220-pound recruit from Southern California took advantage of the chance by looking like an outstanding prospect. And Len Fiketh, 230-pound, ex-Oregon State University star, might find them all.

Erklich, the second-best cut by San Francisco 49ers last season, is also an exceptional punter. "If he should make the club," coach Dave Skrien says, "we'd have the best punter in the conference."

Holdover Mack Burton and Ron Morris, who can both go on offense, are still in the running at defensive-back but they are being pressed by Bud Spicer, who has interesting credentials, and Craig Murray, a rugged rookie from Utah State, who is also arguing about Bullocks' job.

Erklich, the second-best cut by San Francisco 49ers last season, is also an exceptional punter. "If he should make the club," coach Dave Skrien says, "we'd have the best punter in the conference."

Holdover Mack Burton and Ron Morris, who can both go on offense, are still in the running at defensive-back but they are being pressed by Bud Spicer, who has interesting credentials, and Craig Murray, a rugged rookie from Utah State, who is also arguing about Bullocks' job.

Spicer, a 25-year-old, 200-pounder who played his college football at University of Wyoming, has had two seasons of professional football with the San Francisco 49ers last year. When Profit was held back by an early injury, Dave Moton, a tough, 220-pound recruit from Southern California took advantage of the chance by looking like an outstanding prospect. Red Flares Produce Pink Faces

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP) — The faces at HMCS Star, Hamilton's naval reserve training depot, were as red Wednesday as the flares which caused a bit of excitement and tension on Lake Ontario Tuesday.

HMCS Star, a reserve training ship operating from Star, shot off several red flares while out in the lake instructing seamen in emergency procedures.

Red flares are for distress purposes only. And since the navy had not forewarned marine authorities that the exercise would be held, rescue procedures swung into action.

A private yacht, Diamond II, radioed the marine police patrol that a ship was in distress. The patrol dispatched a launch to the rescue. A freighter on the lake was prepared to alter its course if necessary.

Within a few minutes, however, it was discovered that the ship showing the red flares was the naval vessel on a training exercise.

"There was no emergency, no hazard," said Lieutenant-Commander Bernard Van Fleet, commanding officer of HMCS Star. "It was an unscheduled seamanship exercise."

How Did Punch Survive?

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's century and a quarter," says the London Times editorially. "The first edition contained enough material to justify half a dozen successful libel suits and the hauling of the editor, Mark Lemon, before the bar of the House of Commons."

The End For Jackie?

TORONTO (CP) — Jackie Parker, plagued by knee injuries, asked Toronto Argonauts for a week off workouts Tuesday amid growing speculation he will retire after 12 seasons as a top line star in the Canadian Football League.

Parker sought and received the rest period from Argo coach Bob Shaw to see if his knee problems will respond. He had two knee operations since last season and had hoped the workouts would strengthen his knee.

But the knee was reported to be inflamed this week.

Parker, who came to Canada in 1954 from Mississippi State University, has scored more points than any other player in CFL history—744.

He began as a halfback at Edmonton but in his second season moved to quarterback. He was traded to Toronto prior to the 1963 season and since has seen service in both the offensive and defensive backfield.

Giant Boss Charges Overload

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Manager Herman Franks of San Francisco Giants is unhappy that his two top pitchers, Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry, were both used in the All-Star game, the San Francisco Examiner reported today.

National defeated the American 2-1 in a 10-inning game.

Franks worked as the first base coach in the game with the National League squad managed by Walter Alton of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"He had eight pitchers," Franks was quoted from St. Louis by Examiner baseball writer Harry Jupiter.

"They're all All-Stars. There is no reason Alton had to use both of mine. That burned me up and I told him so."

San Francisco, leading the league with a one-game margin over the Pittsburgh Pirates, opens a three-game series at Philadelphia tonight. The Giants then go to Pittsburgh for a Sunday double-header and a single game on Monday night.

Baby Rocks Eyeing Extra Game

Victoria Junior Shamrocks meet Nanaimo Juniors in an Island Senior "B" Lacrosse League game tonight at Memorial Arena at 8:30.

A win for the Shamrocks, who have already beaten Nanaimo twice this season, would clinch for them the extra game when it comes to the Island junior playoffs. The two junior teams are playing for practice in the Senior "B" League, but at the end of the season, they'll play off for the Island junior championship.

Winner will play the main-hand champ for the B.C. title, with the B.C. winner meeting the east for the Minto Cup. The Canadian championship will be in the west this year.

BEG Trials For Three Victorians

Three Victorians are going to the Canadian track and field championships and British Empire Games' trials at Edmonton this weekend.

John Cliff, Bob McLaren and Norm Patenaude, all of the Spartan-Olympist team, will compete in the two-day competition.

Cliff will run in the six-mile race, Patenaude in the three and six-mile events, and McLaren in the 440 yards.

Trawick Signs
MONTREAL (CP) — Herb Trawick, one of the original U.S. imports to Canadian football 20 years ago and a stand-out lineman with Montreal Alouettes for a decade, has signed as line coach with Montreal Beavers of the Continental Football League.

Love, Witchcraft Don't Go Together

Ever thought it might be fun to be a witch? Take a few tips from reports on witchcraft of the 18th century.

First, some home remedies. For a fishbone in the throat, have the patient put his feet in a bowl of cold water.

If a breadcrumb goes down the wrong way, stuff his ears with the same bread.

Makers of toothpaste will not be overjoyed with this remedy for tooth decay—three grains of sea salt dissolved in the mouth every morning and spread with the tongue over the teeth and gums.

If you want enough money to last you until the end of the year, try to make a dozen pancakes (two eggs, milk and flour) while the first mass of Candlemas is being said in the church nearest your home.

To revenge yourself on someone you dislike, get a hair belonging to him or her (on a Friday), and every day for nine days, make a knot in it. On the 9th day, wrap it in new parchment and beat it. Your enemy will feel each blow.

With vacation time upon us, here's a spell which should be popular. To travel without encountering any dangers, but rather many unexpected pleasures, write the names of the three kings (Caspar, Melchior, Balthazar) on a piece of new parchment, put it in your left shoe, and when you leave the house, take the first step

If when you get home from your holiday, you find the place has been ransacked, put some sunflowers under your pillow, and while you are sleeping, you will see the thief's face in your dreams. All this should give you an excellent start towards a witch's career.

One word of advice. Don't fall in love. Witches who fall in love lose all their powers, as witch Gillian Holroyd finds out to her cost in Bell, Book and Candle.

John van Druten's comedy of love and witchcraft—Bastion's Straw Hat Theatre Summer Special, next at the McPherson.

Bell, Book and Candle, directed by Peter Manning, stars Ann Purdon as Gillian Holroyd, Gertrude Ball as her kooky Aunt Queenie, John Bergbusch as younger (warlock) brother Nicky, Lawrence Eastick as the bewitched Stephen Henderson, Hugh Henderson as author Sidney Redditch, and Vicki the Siamese cat as Pyewacket the Witch's "familiar."

NAMES
In the News

HUDIKSVALL, Sweden — In 1939, Einar Anshrin, first violinist aboard a Swedish liner, planned only a round trip to America — then changed his mind and stayed.
Every year he wrote his wife Ester that he would return, but eventually she gave up and divorced him. Three weeks ago, Einar, 68, went back and found Ester, 63, waiting in their old home. They'll remarry soon.

NASHVILLE — Mrs. Fern Hushy, fifth wife of the country music singer, won a divorce on grounds of cruelty and adultery. She is the former Eileen McGilgarry of Vancouver.

ATLANTA, Ga. — The Joe Chandler Harris memorial association ruled that The Wire's Nest, home of the late Harris, Negro author of the Uncle Remus stories, is a whites-only tourist attraction.

NEW YORK — Billy Graham, home from a crusade in Britain, said there are "tens of thousands of deeply religious young people" there, despite the long hair and short skirts.

SAN LUCAR DE BARRAMEDA, Spain — Princess Beatrice of Sax-Coburg-Gotha, a granddaughter of Queen Victoria, died at 82.

TORONTO — Joseph Wazicki, Toronto sales chief of Air Canada, boarded a plane he thought would take him to Montreal for a meeting. Instead, the plane went to London, England, and caught a return flight too late for the affair. It discussed the use of computers to make air travel trouble-free.

From Hawaii with lei, Narcissus Queen Lynnette Moo presented Mayor Toone with the traditional island's traditional greeting. Also at ceremony in Centennial Square were Narcissus Princess Carolyn Hong and Jacquelyn Chun, Miss Chinatown (S.A.—(Robin Clarke))

Hawaiian Royalty Crowds Square

By BERT BINNY

Goodwill, color, sunshine and a rare crowd filled Centennial Square Wednesday night.

The occasion was the appearance of Hawaii's 1966 Narcissus Queen, Lynnette Moo, and her princesses, Jacquelyn Chun and Carolyn Hong, the former Miss Chinatown, U.S.A.

The large audience first heard a burst of Chinese music and then a drum fanfare announced the arrival of the queen and her court.

Almost every vantage point in the square, including the walls and the roof of the parkade, was occupied.

Mrs. F. M. Corbett of the Centennial Society opened the proceedings and introduced Jack Lee, president of the Victoria Chinese Community Association. He introduced Mayor Toone who welcomed the visitors.

Queen Lynnette presented the mayor with an appetizing-looking pineapple direct from Hawaii.

Flowers were presented to the narcissus queen by seven-year-old Majorette Sarah Wong.

Entertainment started with a smart performance by the Chinatown Lions' Club Drum and Bell Corps and the Majorettes, led by Lorraine Wong.

Mr. Lee said the guests from Hawaii did not appear just to receive — they were prepared to give, too.

Thus, the queen and the princesses entertained — to explanations announced by their leader Mrs. Virginia Wong.

Princess Carolyn performed two hula dances, Hawaiian and Narcissus Queen. Assisted by three of the majorettes, Princess Chun gave a story-telling dance and Queen Lynnette performed a Balinese dance.

John Dunbar brought the program of entertainment to a close with some of his best known songs.

Quite clearly it is the sort of affair the square needs.

Elk Lake Acreage in Question

Ridge Route to Ferry?

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

The proposed freeway connecting Swartz Bay to Victoria might run along a high ridge of the Saanich Peninsula east of the Patricia Bay Highway, it was learned Wednesday.

Clue to possible location of the much talked about freeway was contained in a cabinet order made public Wednesday.

The order named County Court Judge Montague Tywhitt-Drake as arbitrator to determine how much the highways department should pay the owners for 7.54 acres of land which it wants to buy on the Saanich Peninsula.

It stated that the appointment was made because the minister of highways and the owners of the land were unable to agree on how much money should be paid for it.

It also indicated that the certificate of title to the land was once held by city real estate salesman Clarence Pullan, 4859 Georgia Park Terrace, and Morris Lund, 983 Karen Crescent.

Highways department officials, however, were unable to give the exact location of the land, apart from the fact it is near Elk Lake.

They confirmed though that the department might want the land in connection with a future freeway development and said it would be better to buy it before it is lost through construction of subdivisions.

Saanich municipal engineer Neville Life, supplied with the legal description of the land, said it is atop a hill on the southern side of Cordova Bay Road, about 300 feet east of Santa Clara Avenue. He said he could shed no light on the purpose of the proposed purchase.

Mr. Lund said he and Mr. Pullan used to own land in that vicinity but "we haven't had anything there for some time, many, many months." He said he was not at liberty to divulge to whom the land was sold and that the current situation disclosed by the cabinet order is "a complete mystery to me."

Highways spokesmen declined to say whether the department had acquired other land in the vicinity of the 7.54 acres. They pointed out that there are still several possible routes for the freeway and said land could always be disposed of again if it was acquired and later found not to be needed.

Police Laud 'Yegg'

An amateur locksmith and a temperamental combination lock in a city hall vault waged a contest for an hour Wednesday morning before the locksmith won.

L. P. (Lou) Schleppe, 653 Herald, said work parties caused the jam. He managed to manipulate the lock into opening position without having to punch out the dial.

An admiring policeman called it "a masterpiece job. I'm glad he's on our side."

Three Benefit

Literature, Art Aid Announced

Two university teachers and a student of the old Victoria College have won Canada Council study grants. It was announced Wednesday.

Dr. John Hayman, who is on leave of absence from the University of Victoria's English department, received a $1,500 grant to study 17th Century literature at Oxford.

Lewis Tusken of the university's department of modern languages received a similar sum to study German literature. He now is in Bonn.

Both are assistant professors here.

Dr. Judith Dundas, whose marks averaged close to 96 per cent when she was at Victoria College from 1944 to 1946, has won $1,200 to study Renaissance art.

She is the daughter of Hon. Mrs. R. S. Dundas, 786 Island Road.

Dr. J. C. M. Ogelsby, who resigned from the University of Victoria June 30 to teach at the University of Western Ontario, refused a $600 grant which was offered by the Council.

He is studying the history of Mexico and Central America this summer.

Blood Gifts

Friday At Firehall

Blood will run in Saanich's main firehall Friday.

Fire Chief Joseph Sutherland has invited the Red Cross to the hall for a day of blood-giving by municipal employees.

He expects the employees will contribute at least 120 pints but invites anyone living near the hall, at 700 Vernon, to call at the clinic.

The clinic will be open between 10 a.m. and noon and 1 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Bleak, Cold as Jail Room

Dignity Impossible In Court Like This

By TED PULFORD

Magistrate Harold Alder of Greater Victoria's Family Court sat huddled in the corner of his staff's lunchroom Wednesday, attempting to read through a legal document.

As he worked, people bustled in and out, talked, rattled cups, slammed doors and filled the room with cigarette smoke.

In a tiny detention room next door, a youngster paced the floor as he awaited his appearance in court.

Muffled Roar

At the time for morning court draw near, the public toilet, set in a tiny 15-foot-square cubbyhole on the main floor, let out a muffled roar. Hammers pounded in the basement.

Two women, unable to find a space inside the crowded waiting room, were discussing their case out on the lawn. "You let him have it," one advised her anxious friend. "It's your word against his."

"I sure will," said the other.

Deep Interest

A scruffy, wide-eyed child listened with deep interest. Citizens, pleased with the beauties of Bastion Square or the quiet elegance of the City Hall complex, might learn much from a visit to the waiting room of this Greater Victoria family court.

Though clean enough, it is utterly bleak and as cold as the anteroom of a jail. Metal chairs are littered about, groups of people stand talking beside the boarded-up fireplace. There isn't enough light.

Single Sign

Not a single picture hangs on the walls. Their sole adornment is a "No Smoking" sign.

The courtroom looks more like the reading room of an ancient law library. Brown, wooden civil service tables are placed in the form of a T with the magistrate seated in a wooden chair at one end. A half-dozen chairs line the walls.

The room is about 15 feet wide and 20 feet long. Packed into it at one point Wednesday were three youngsters, all involved in the same offence, the magistrate, prosecutor, court officer, parents and lawyers.

It is the condition of this room, the heart and purpose of family court, that kindles the greatest wrath in court workers when they discuss the situation.

Two Points

"How can there be any court dignity in these surroundings?" an official wanted to know. "How is it possible to maintain the decorum of the court in such a place?"

Place to Sit

Mere $808

Saanich insists architect's plans for the proposed new family court building — at an estimated cost of some $6,000 — be shared under a cost-sharing formula recommended by order-in-council last October.

Victoria counters with the demand that the usual inter-municipal formula be applied.

The difference at this stage is a mere $808, in favor of Saanich.

Since officials fear the formula accepted to determine payment for the drawing of plans will be the one used to decide final capital contributions by each municipality, the two major participants remain firm in their demands.

The chief probation officer and his secretary have been forced to pack their desks into the same room.

But the staff, at least, has a place to sit.

Lawyers must confer with clients on the stairs or in the hall. If they want more privacy, the glassed-in porch or the front lawn are the final alternatives.

"Bitterness and low morale among the staff and officers of the court stems — to some extent at least — from the fact that the old detention home on Colliemore Road was pressed into service as a merely temporary expedient.

This "temporary move" was made almost three years ago.

For Centenary

Sooke Day Finances Project

Sooke Community Association will donate $2,500 to the Sooke Centennial Committee as the people's share of Sooke's centennial project.

"We don't feel we should canvass the area," said president Frank Gray Wednesday. "All-Sooke Day is a community effort and part of the proceeds can go to the centennial committee."

Sooke's centennial committee has planned $6,000 worth of improvements to the Sooke Flats picnic grounds.

At an association meeting Wednesday it was reported that there was an attendance of approximately 13,000 on last Saturday's 30th annual All-Sooke Day.

Profit is expected to be about $8,000, compared with just over $6,000 last year.

Mr. Gray thanked all who helped with the event.

"The money will be used to further community social, athletic and recreation activities," he said.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Your column is the best place I know to air a gripe. I am up to here with a certain friend who has been boring me (and others) for years about what a clean cook and housekeeper she is. If she says once more that a person could eat off her floor I just may belt her.

Last night she came to a church supper and wouldn't eat a thing because she had no way of knowing who had prepared the food — or if the kitchen was clean. All during the meal she gave a running recital of how she washed her bacon and lunch meat and frankfurters in three waters "even though they usually come wrapped in cellophane these days." Her steaks, chops and roasts, she confided (at the top of her voice) go through six waters.

Her poor husband sat there in silence and didn't say a word, even when she turned to him and asked, "Don't I, dear?"

I have always thought this woman was a loon, but when she announced that she even runs the peeled bananas under the faucet before she puts them into a salad, I knew she was nuts. What do you think? — DIRTY COOK

Dear Cook: I think as you do. She's nuts.

Meats that come wrapped in cellophane need not be washed. Steaks and chops and roasts should not be washed — wiping them with a damp cloth is sufficient.

Fruits that have peelings — well, why go into anything as obvious as THAT? I feel like a darned fool saying it!

Dear Ann Landers: Since you are the American oracle of advice we want your answer to this question. Few parents, if any, can face this sort of thing with any degree of maturity.

Question: A 21-year-old son returns home from college for the summer vacation. He says to his parents, "I'm going to take out a girl tonight. She's a sure thing and I know I can score. May I use my bedroom or are you going to force me to use the automobile?"

Answer: I think you should tell him to go to the dormitory.

Confidential to THE BEST THINGS IN LIFE ARE FREE. Sorry but what you call "the best things" may not be best for YOU. They may be the worst thing. And if you think you can get anything in this life without paying for it, forget it. Bub, The bill will come later.

Elected Head Of BPW

Heading some 6,500 business and professional women across Canada is a petite, fair-haired woman from Neepawa, Man.

Miss Louise Card was elected national president of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, at the Wednesday morning session of the 20th biennial convention being held here at the Empress Hotel. She will be installed this evening at the closing banquet in the Crystal Ballroom.

Manager-buyer of the hardware department of a large retail lumber store in her home town, Miss Card is a member of the Neepawa Chamber of Commerce, having served five years on the executive.

She said she joined the BPW Club because she felt that she had reached the point where I needed to improve myself and the aims and objectives of the Canadian federation seemed to be the answer.

Thus the federation's present program for self-improvement among its members and encouraging other women to take part has a special meaning for the new president.

"I feel that women have a great part to play in the general scheme of things in Canada," she said.

Miss Card said she feels that the status of women in the business and professional world has definitely improved in the past two or three years.

In addition to being president of the Neepawa BPW Club Miss Card has served on a number of posts at provincial, national and international levels. She was on the provincial executive for three years for Manitoba BPW; joined the national board in 1956 as a provincial secretary, serving two years in this capacity; was appointed to the national board as membership chairman in 1960 and two years later elected a vice-president. She became first vice-president at the biennial convention in 1964 at Ottawa.

She served from 1962 to 1965 as chairman of the membership sub-development committee of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women. She was delegate to federation's congresses in 1962 at Oslo, Norway, and in 1965 at Washington, D.C.

Miss Card was also a member of the delegation that presented the CFBPWC briefs to Prime

Resolutions Highlight BPWC Convention

Requests for a new correctional plan for female prisoners in federal institutions and for a motivational study of Canadian women who enter the labor force were the outcome of some of the resolutions passed at the 20th biennial convention of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

The organization will petition the federal government for action on the resolutions, both submitted by Toronto delegates to the assembled group at the Empress Hotel.

The resolution for a correctional plan stated that since "most female offenders... are not involved in organized crime, but in crimes rooted in inadequacy, self-destruction, prostitution, alcoholism and drug addiction" their requirements are different from those of men offenders.

The request for the labor study to be made by the Economic Council of Canada, is based on the proposed goal of one million women being integrated into the national labor force by 1970.

Requests for a counseling service for middle-aged women entering, or re-entering, the labor force; ballot boxes in hospitals and nursing homes at federal elections; revision of the Canada Pension Plan to allow for "employment of a person by his spouse," and partial benefit of Pension Plan contributions to a dependant on the contributor's death, were other resolutions passed at the convention.

Women Must Accept Equal Responsibility

"If we're shouting for equal rights and equal wages, we must be prepared to accept equal responsibilities," commented Lady Littlewood realistically when she addressed delegates at the 20th biennial convention of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, attending a dinner in the Empress Hotel Tuesday evening.

Lady Littlewood's follow-up remark was received with slightly less enthusiasm.

Today, in England, marriage breaks up, the husband can gain maintenance from his wife if she is capable of working and he is incapacitated," the speaker continued. "Maybe you don't like the sound of that, but I feel it is quite right."

The distinguished guest from London is a lawyer and although her husband and son are in the same profession "we don't work together," she says. "At times my husband and I have appeared against each other and on the first occasion I was the successful one!"

Lady Littlewood is president of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

In linking her talk with the convention's theme "the challenge of change," she mentioned the most recent additions of Telford and Jordan to the 34 member countries of the Federation. Applications have also been received from women in Beirut.

"The greater our membership the more able we are to speak for business and professional women all over the world. Also with greater membership we can fulfill our main aim of giving encouragement to all business women."

"Women of under-developed countries, given education, make greater strides than we do in the Western world."

Lady Littlewood urged that having got equal political and economic rights in Canada women must be sure they use them adequately in local and federal government.

As an example of a woman exceeding her right in the world the visitor pointed to Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India. "But, ladies, that's only an exception. I look forward to the day when we expect it!"

In order to gain this, women must have education and basic training, Lady Littlewood thanked the Canadian Federation for their work with Ramallah, a college for training refugee girls.

She said that business and professional women can encourage the authorities to give training and re-training to women who wish to return to work.

"Because girls are marrying now at an earlier age, their families are, grown and they may wish to get jobs when they are still quite young. With more part-time work and day nurseries, women will find it easier to work outside the home."

Lady Littlewood concluded by saying, "We are all citizens of the world, therefore we must make the maximum contribution to the community. With women of one country helping women of another country, the world will be a better, and I'm convinced, more peaceful place."

Lady Littlewood was introduced by Miss Lucy Mine, vice-president, and thanked by Miss Margaret Fitzgerald, president of Nova Scotia BPW clubs, who presented her with a dogwood pin of B.C. jade.

Creation of Sewer Districts Recommended by Report

By TED PULFORD

Creation of six sewerage areas covering Greater Victoria and all of the Saanich Peninsula, was suggested Wednesday at a meeting of the Regional District Board.

The suggestion was contained in the long-awaited sewer report, just completed by Associated Engineering Services.

Most complex segment of the $23,514,000 project is that known as Area Two, covering Esquimalt, Colquitz and Cordova Bay. Three alternatives were considered before engineers recommended a plan which will cost $8,928,000 to complete.

SEWAGE DIVERSION

The proposal calls for diversion of sewage from the Colquitz basin into a reconstructed northwest trunk sewer for final discharge from an outfall located at Macaulay Point.

The subarea involving Finerty Cove and Gordon Head will be serviced by existing facilities. An independent system with its outfall would be constructed in Cordova Bay and sewage from Prospect Lake would be treated by a 'stabilization' pond discharging to Tod Creek, thence to the Cordova Bay system.

For Colwood, Langford and Metcheson, designated as Area One, a pair of alternative proposals was considered before one was selected which will cost $6,479,000.

This scheme recommends collection of sewage from the entire area with final discharge to the sea from one large outfall at Albert Head.

Parallel to the shore would run a northbound trunk to serve Colwood and Langford in the early stages of the project. After 20 years, a southern line would be required.

AREA THREE

The Clover Point drainage system which comprises Area Three, calls only for extension of the existing outfall to deeper water at a total cost, over the 50-year period covered by the report of $2,717,000.

McMicking Point, referred to by the report as Area Four, will be served by a new outfall extending from the point, across Enterprise Channel and finally to a discharge point off Trial Island.

Total cost will be $1,065,000.

AREA FIVE

Central Saanich, described as Area Five, will be drained to the east of Saanich Peninsula for disposal off Cordova Spit. Because of high costs—$2,844,000 in this instance—and sparse population, temporary expedients will be used during early years of the project.

Only one method of disposal was considered for Area Six, Sidney-North Saanich. Sewage flows from Sidney's three existing collection networks would be combined to pour into a single outfall.

Extension of the existing outfall, with parallel construction of another at Ocean Avenue will be required eventually. Cost of this segment of the project has been estimated at $1,981,000.

Slaying Bounty Climbs

VANCOUVER (CP) — Reward money now totals $4,500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of Coquitlam's 'lovers' lane slayer.

Coquitlam council Tuesday night posted a $2,500 reward, on top of $2,000 offered earlier by a radio station.

Council also decided to barricade off the lane in which Mrs. Anna Whitby, 28, was strangled last Thursday with her own slacks.

Meanwhile, in Calgary, RCMP have released a former Alberta mental patient, who once was considered as a suspect.

Few Cold Ones After Game Not for Harold

By RAY KERR
Third of Five Parts

If you went to a Leaf hockey game and met Harold (it may or may not be his real name), you wouldn't find him much different from any other hockey fan.

He worships Fred Hucul and Andy Hebenton and he's tickled pink about the fact that the Victoria Maple Leafs will definitely be back in the Western Hockey League for the 1966-67 season.

One thing might puzzle you. If you mentioned going for a beer after the game, Harold would refuse. Firmly but, politely.

Harold, it so happens, is an alcoholic, and member of Alcoholics Anonymous.

He began drinking at the age of 17 and his drinking got progressively worse, until he not only lost his job, but his family as well.

The following taped interview describes how Harold pulled his life together, with the help of AA.

QUESTION: After you'd lost your last job and many others, and after your wife had left you, what did you do?

ANSWER: I remember seeing an advertisement stating that through and I knew then he anyone with a drinking problem wasn't handing me a line.

No Spiritual Guidance

Q: Did you get much religion couple of days and figured I from them?

A: None. These guys didn't give me any spiritual guidance at all. They only said that I would have to make up my mind to stay sober just for that day. That didn't seem so hard the funny thing is no one even and I was surprised they didn't try to give me a pill or something to help me. They just talked about drinking and it seemed to make sense.

Q: What happened then?

A: They asked me if I wanted to attend one of their meetings. They just asked if I wanted to do these things. They didn't seem to care whether I did them or not.

Q: Did you go to the meeting they suggested?

A: There I met a number of men and women of various ages who had drinking problems. I met a couple of guys I had been drinking with a few years back and it was like old home week except the booze wasn't there.

Q: Did you get anything out of the meeting?

A: Yes. I realized that I wasn't alone in my misery.

Q: After the meeting, how did you feel?

A: For one thing, I didn't feel like drinking. I'd been sober a

By PATRICK O'NEILL

A new art gallery in Victoria will open Monday with a show by top west coast artist Jack Shadbolt.

Angels Camp gallery is located at 1206 Wharf Street. It is being established by Victoria artist James O'Mara.

Mr. O'Mara has been in Victoria for four years, after coming from Toronto. Management of Angels Camp will be full-time occupation for the former Woodward's advertising designer.

The Jack Shadbolt show will be a preview of his one-man art show in the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria in the fall, which will be based on 30 years of his work.

O'Mara (top), Else at work

One of the principal attractions of Angels Camp will be sand cast candles by Sheila and Cuyler Page of Vancouver.

These candles will be in the craft shop in the front room. The candles, each a unique work of art, are a form of craft rare in Canada.

Also involved in the project is Tony Else, part owner of the A-Go-Go which is in the cellar of the same building.

Major renovation of the street-level floor has been undertaken in recent weeks.

Both Mr. O'Mara and Mr. Else have been welding paint brushes, doing repairs, and turning a disused building into a setting for contemporary art.

"We were just working with a shell," Mr. O'Mara said.

The shell has been rebuilt and decorated. Shake roofs have been used indoors, and an elaborate lighting system was placed in the gallery to gain maximum effect.

There will be no admission charge to Angels Camp.

Why the name?

"It's a play on the term 'camp,'" said Mr. O'Mara. We're recognizing that art now is a real Swedish thing, such as pop art."

The craft room will include jewelry, pottery, mobiles, and prints. "Because of limited space, we want to fill it with as much good stuff as possible," said Mr. O'Mara.

The room behind the craft room will be for reproductions and small pieces, oils, graphics. "The size of the room lends itself to smaller pieces."

Mr. O'Mara said he is also interested in photographic exhibits.

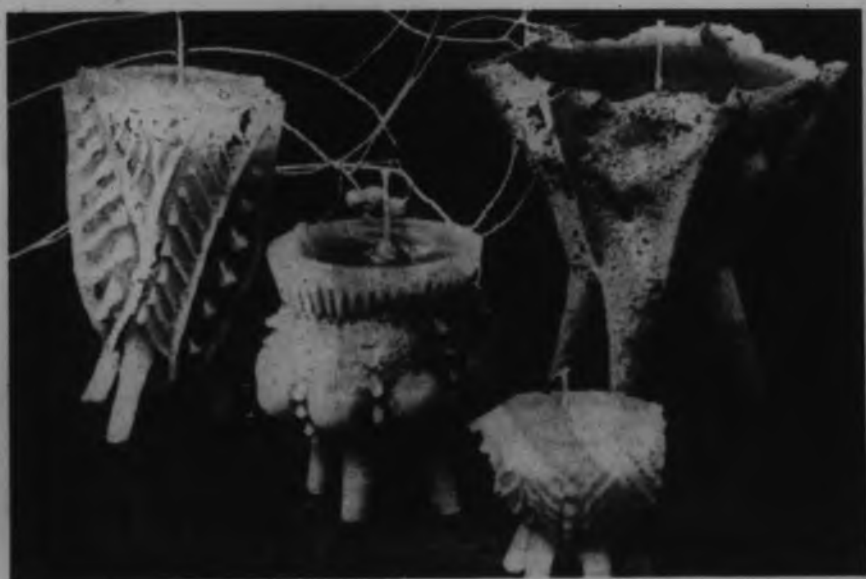

The two back rooms are huge. They have 18-foot ceilings, rough white walls.

In these rooms we will have the large pieces and the one-man shows," said Mr. O'Mara.

The Page candles are expected to be a major draw of Angels Camp.

The candles are poured in individually carved molds of river silt, which lends itself to intricate designs and earthen effects.

The high melting point of the wax allows the flame to burn a deepening hollow in the centre of the candle, preserving the outer walls.

Canadian Play 'Bad Hokum'

By DONALD PHILLIPSON

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) —

The first-night audience loved it but critics disagreed sharply about "The Last of the Tears," the Shakespearean festival's fourth of five dramatic productions this season.

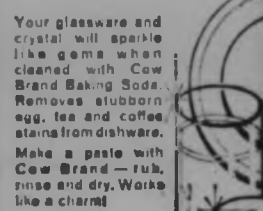

Written by Michael Rawtree, a young English lecturer at Simon Fraser University, Vancouver, the play recounts the last five years of Grand Duke Michael Romanoff, the man who dissolved the Russian monarchy when Czar Nicholas II abdicated in his favor in 1917.

Robert Tanner called it "a very considerable success" in the Belleville Intelligencer while Nathan Cohen of the Toronto Star found it a "fiasco" and very considerable success in "bad theatrical hokum."

Produced by Michael Langham, the festival's artistic director, the play is "what amounts to a historical revue" with a "semi-documentary, semi-fanciful approach to the events," wrote Herbert Whitaker in the Toronto Globe and Mail.

BY JEAN SFRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP)—A model's face isn't her fortune anymore, but it's still her ticket to stardom.

If these are not long, strong, straight and well-shaped with nice knees, they can be her misfortune.

With headlines skyrocketing, the successful fact that has driven many a bony beauty into reluctant retirement, several prominent modelling agencies here say.

One agency likens their otherwise lovely ladies to creaking doors that start to squeal on voices who were slender in silk before talking pictures shattered their careers.

[Time their upward climb some of the girls might have to resort to plastic surgery to stay in the modelling business.

"A model with an imperfect face at least could hide the fact by the way she wore her hair or the clothes she wore," one said. "But when you've had legs there is nothing you can do."

A girl who agrees though, is statuette Erica Stock, a 32-year-old former model. She is doing "a lot of leg work."

DO OR DON'T

"No matter what the beauty experts say, either you have good legs or you don't. Exercises won't help. You have

Serious Warning Drafted by Reds

PARIS — President Charles de Gaulle and Premier King A. J. Vathana ended two days of official talks after noting that the Viet Nam conflict could escalate into a nuclear Third World War.

Strikes Tire Russian

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP)—There are no strikes in Russia and the master of a Russian freighter tied up here made it plain Wednesday that he wishes there were none in Canada. He's tired of capitalist labor disputes.

Said Capt. Anatoly Kuznetsov of the motor vessel Bratsk in an interview:

CREW HOMESICK

"The line is losing money, the crew is homesick and I am getting tired."

The Bratsk, owned by Russia's Baltic Steamship Co., left Leningrad April 26 and was supposed to have been back home by mid-June. Maybe she'll make it by the end of August, the captain said wearily.

TOUGH LUCK

The Bratsk tied up at Quebec City for three weeks because of a dock strike. She finally made it to Toronto—the day that Toronto's longshoremen walked out. She arrived here Sunday and on Monday, Hamilton's dock workers went on strike.

"In Russia there is a longshoremen's union but there are no strikes," said Capt. Kuznetsov. "You don't pass idle hours there waiting for men to go back to work."

Police Name Dead Girls

QUEBEC (CP)—RCMP released the names of two girls drowned in separate incidents. Given Kathleen Smith, 5, of Quebec drowned when she fell while playing on the banks of the Saguenay River. Linda Maule Nelson, 18, of Quebec was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital here after she was pulled unconscious from Dragon Lake.

Abortion Bill Passes Reading

JERUSALEM (AP)—Self-induced abortion would no longer be considered a crime under an amendment to Israel's Criminal Code which passed a second reading in Parliament here. The amendment, which requires a third reading before becoming law, was supported by most women members.

Moonport Men Go on Strike

CAPE KENNEDY—Moonport construction workers went on strike in a protest against the hiring of non-union labor for work at the sprawling space center. Picket lines were set up at all entrances to the space agency's Kennedy space center.

'Jail Is Going To Kill Me'

A man guilty of 15 counts of false pretences told central magistrate's court Wednesday that "jail is going to kill me."

John McGarvey, of Sooke, was in court for sentence. He added: "I can't face it (jail). I'm too old."

Magistrate William Ostler told him it was his addiction to drugs that would kill him.

TWO MONTHS
Magistrate Ostler sentenced McGarvey to two months in jail for the false pretences and told him he was fortunate he was not sentenced to the penitentiary.

Court had been told at an earlier hearing that McGarvey had a record for false pretences, theft by misappropriation, uttering and forgery.

He wrote 15 worthless cheques between October and February—mostly to service station operators—and had made complete restitution.

Joseph Smith, 37, Metcalvin, was fined $50 when he was convicted by Magistrate J. A. Byers of careless driving.

He was involved in an accident on Trans-Canada Highway April 14, in which Mrs. Ida Moon of Shawnigan Lake was killed.

Magistrate Byers said Smith was under an obligation to yield to the car in which Mrs. Moon was travelling.

Magistrate Byers said he would recommend that Smith's licence be suspended for a substantial period.

TWO POLICEMEN spent a couple of hours April 12 chasing two horses running loose in the 4400-block Shelbourne.

The horse's owner, Mrs. Phyllis Eusebio, 157 Cedar Hill Cross Road, was found guilty of permitting the horses to run at large and was fined the maximum $1.

A 57-year-old man was remanded to Friday for plea on a charge of contributing to juvenile delinquency.

Cyril Jackman, 322 Rupert, is charged with encouraging a 14-year-old girl to perform immoral acts.

Boil was set at $500.

A youth driving a car stopped in Cobwood June 12 admitted drinking beer and David Lachmund admitted supplying it.

Lachmund, 3129 Seymour, pleaded guilty to supplying a minor with liquor and was fined $50.

Peter Busch was fined $10 when he pleaded guilty to operating a bicycle without due care and attention.

Court was told that Busch, 604 Wilson, on June 1 struck a pedestrian who received a cut above the eye.

Magistrate Byers dismissed an assault charge brought by William and Daniel Conley against Albert Spowage.

Magistrate Ostler had dismissed an assault charge brought against the Conleys by Spowage.

The charges followed what was described as a "drunken brawl" at 327 Quebec on June 11 where the two parties had adjacent suites.

Wilbert Barber, 714 Lindsay, was fined $25 on each of four counts of failing to file an income tax return.

Michael Baran, 20, 3899 Ansell, was fined $25 when he pleaded guilty to being a minor in possession of liquor.

William Bull, 250 Meade, was fined $50 and had his licence suspended for a month when he pleaded guilty to careless driving.

Garden Notes

What Price Worms?

By M. V. CHESNUT

Grow gorgeous flowers—let domesticated earthworms improve your garden soil. $3 per 1,000 postpaid. Norris Earthworm Ranch, etc., etc.

Most of the garden books will tell you that earthworms are considered highly beneficial in the garden—so much so, classified advertisements such as the above, which is fictional, appear in every U.S. garden magazine.

I wonder sometimes, though, whether we are confusing cause and effect here. It is true that soil containing a high population of earthworms is usually very fertile and rich in organic matter, but I have a hunch that the worms are the result rather than the cause of the high fertility. I think they move in and multiply in humus-rich soil and move out of hot, dry, infertile ground.

Whether or not they convey any benefit to cultivated ground, worms can certainly make an unholy mess of the front lawn. Every morning, after rain or heavy dew, a worm-infested lawn will be dotted with little hillocks of wormcasts.

While these casts are supposed to contain mineral-rich soil dredged up from the lower levels, the stuff is a sticky, pasty texture, and when flattened by the passage of the lawn mower, they smother and kill the grass. In old-time English estate gardens, it was the duty of the head gardener's most junior apprentice to sweep the lawn every morning, scattering the casts.

For a severe infestation, the head gardener would order an application of nowrah meal—a worm-killer imported from India made from the ground-up bean-like seeds of a native tree. Later, arsenate of lead was used and is still effective, sometimes used on golf courses, but the stuff is a dangerous and persistent poison and I don't care much about having it around.

For the nature boys who can't bear to destroy earthworms, a good remedy is permanganate of potash, half a teaspoonful per gallon of water applied in sufficient quantity to drench the soil at a time when the ground is already moist to a good depth.

This doesn't kill the worms but it will bring them wriggling to the surface, where they can be swept up and put to work in the compost heap. Incidentally, this isn't a bad stunt when you want to collect fish bait without a lot of strenuous digging.

To de-worm a lawn without bringing them to the surface, the modern treatment is to kill them in the soil with chlordane. This chemical comes in both powdered and liquid emulsion forms, and for this purpose I prefer the liquid formulation. You can buy it under its own name, or you may find it under such trade names as Pest-Chlor, Ant & Grub Killer, End-o-Pest-ARC, Lawn Insect Killer and the like. Check for the name chlordane in the list of ingredients on the label.

First, give the lawn a really deep and thorough watering, for the chlordane solution can't penetrate to the proper depth in dry soil. Dilute at the rate of three tablespoonfuls per gallon and apply with a watering can in the cool of the evening when the worms are in the upper layers of soil. Five gallons of solution will do 100 square feet.

If you use a hose-end dispenser instead of a watering can—and this is a much less laborious method of application—figure on four ounces of the chlordane per 100 square feet. Follow this up with a final light watering to wash in the chemical.

ART BUCHWALD Revisits Paris

Humble French Envy U.S.

PARIS—The chic thing to do these days if you are an American is to praise Madrid, love London, and hate Paris. I had been gone for four years and my friends kept returning with horror stories about France. It perplexed me as I couldn't believe the French had changed that much in such a short period of time.

I am happy to report they haven't. The French are still the same, it's just getting more difficult for Americans to understand them.

The first thing you have to understand is that the French people have an inferiority complex about their country. Lacking a strong political leader, the French secretly admire the fact that the U.S. has someone like Lyndon B. Johnson running the country.

They dream of the day when they will have a tall dark stranger in the Elysee Palace who will tell the rest of the world to go to blazes. But since they don't have one, the French quite naturally envy the Americans who do.

The second thing you must know about the French is that they are a humble people. They know their cooking is not up to par in comparison to the American cuisine, and this frustrates them no end.

Try as they may, the French have never been able to develop a wax-wrapped white bread or a decent sugar-coated cake, and they are afraid they will never catch up with Americans when it comes to perfecting a frozen TV dinner.

Knowing they are so far behind the Americans where cooking is concerned, the French try to bluster through, hoping Americans will not notice what they're eating.

This is also true of wines. The French have had little experience with wines and most of what they drink are homegrown products which they started producing to save importing American wine.

It was a noble experiment, but a Frenchman is still very embarrassed to serve a French wine to an American, since he never knows if the American will laugh or not.

Rather than show his embarrassment, the Frenchman appears to be angry, when, in reality, he is praying the American will not know the difference.

Americans claim the Parisians are rude. But this is just a facade. Paris is an old city with old buildings, old parks, old tree-lined boulevards, and an old river running through the middle.

Most of the pictures hanging in its museums belong to another era. Parisians are on the defensive about this all the time.

They are hard put to explain why there are so few skyscrapers on the river banks, so little urban renewal in the parks, and so many trees still left standing in the streets.

If they appear rude to Americans, it's only because they don't want to explain why Paris has none of the charm of, let's say, Austin, Texas.

These are only a few of the reasons why Americans get the impression the French think unkindly of them. What it all boils down to is that the French are in awe of Americans, because they know that nothing they have compares to what the United States has.

They pretend to look down on Americans, but in their hearts they have nothing but love and admiration for them, and someday, if they ever get a strong leader, they will drop all pretense of being angry with Americans and will walk hand in hand with them into the sunset.

First Find Self

DR. STUART ROSENBERG

If instead of seeing our people and other things. Our entire educational enterprise is geared to that. History, geography, even psychology, are taught with a view to helping man to get along in the world.

The true cultivation of our own worlds, is somehow never really dealt with. Yet, man can be close to himself, and if he would cultivate self-knowledge, he can make of his aloneness something significant and worthwhile.

Perhaps this is why mystics often speak of "self-union." They mean to suggest that instead of seeking communion with the world as an escape from our own sense of fragile isolation, we might try to "unite with our own selves" to deepen our self-knowledge, the better to live with ourselves.

No truly creative act can be achieved without self-union. Can an artist paint unless he first speaks with himself? From this dialogue with himself there can emerge the outpouring of his own unique spirit. Counterfeit art must copy the work of others; it must, because it reflects nothing of the self and of the mystery of the self.

True creation, in every field of human aspiration, is the product of men who are capable of entering into a profound discussion with themselves. Though they work on an island emptied of other men — they are never alone. They still have themselves.

The difficulty, of course, is that our society does not encourage this kind of self-knowledge. Not only so our education not geared to this, but even more importantly, the patterns of social behavior expected of us, often militate against this.

Most of us have been made into automations: we react like Pavlov's dog, full of conditioned reflexes — conditions not of our own desire or making.

This is our dilemma. We come into the world seeking union with it but hardly ever experience ourselves first. Into the noise we come, and we are overwhelmed by it because there is no still small voice within us.

Alfred North Whitehead said that religion is what a man does with himself, by himself, when he is all alone with himself.

The lesson is clear. He who would find union must first learn how to unite with himself.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Gina Out and Capucine In

ROME (NANA)—Gina Lollobrigida stepped out of The Queens, and Capucine stepped in—with Claudia Cardinale and Monica Vitti. For later in the year, C.C. is now in America for her Hollywood picture with Tony Curtis. And Gina is busy with her official separation from her Doctor Milko.

Mrs. Rossano Brazzi could work forever in movies—if her husband would let her. She has just finished starring for Rossano in The Christmas that Almost Wasn't. "It's my first film as a director," Rossano told me in the Excelsior Bar where, if you sit long enough, you will see everyone in Rome. . . . Before resuming the chat with Rossano, I'll tell you whom I saw: Playwright Gore Vidal, who came over to say hello and to tell me that he was taking Claire Bloom to see a movie, and, of all things, the movie was Inside Daisy Clover. (Things must be quiet in Rome). They were joined for a drink by Omar Sharif with the ragged beard. When he kissed me, it reminded me of the bearded Richard Burton. When he kissed wife Elizabeth Taylor in their Taming of the Shrew movie, she requires a completely new make-up. Anyway, Omar told me he was leaving soon for Naples to co-star with Sophia Loren in Once Upon a Time. . . . Irwin Shaw, on a cruise, he told me, popped in to see who was around.

And now back to Mr. Brazzi who had brought along his producer, Barry Yellen (and Mrs. Yellen) whose company has the cute title of Childhood Productions. "I play the fat man," said Rossano. He meant the heavy "Lydia is Mrs. Santa Claus." Rossano is the villain. A sort of Italian Scrooge under the name of Mr. Phineas Prune. He buys the North Pole from the landlord who owns Santa's mortgage, and if the rent is not paid by midnight, December 24, he will take all of the toys in part payment and no one will have a Christmas. You get the idea?

Does being a director mean that Rossano is about to give up his acting career, I asked him? To which he replied emphatically, "I'll never give up acting. I'm a ham. And now Lydia is on her way. She's marvellous. And she's very expensive. She says, 'If I have to suffer the inconveniences of getting up early, and the hot lights, they'll have to pay for it.'" You will see the pleasant and plump Mrs. Brazzi first in the Peter Sellers picture, After the Fox. "She steals it," said her husband proudly. . . . Also in the current film, Mischa Auer, who plays Santa's bookkeeper. And Esio Flermonte, the former prize fighter who was once married to an Astor in America.

Sam Max took off for Spain to scout locations for Anzio Landing. His Waterloo with Peter O'Toole has been postponed until next year. It's interesting that Sam has been at the same studio in Rome where Elizabeth Taylor is working. He gave Mrs. Burton her first job in the movies, Lassie Comes Home.

Murder Hearing Opens

Arsenic Poisoning So Rare Victim Was Never Tested

VANCOUVER (CP)—A coroner testified Wednesday that Mrs. Esther Castellani deteriorated in the last seven weeks of her life from a plump, jovial woman to a person gravely ill and almost totally paralyzed.

Dr. Bernard Moscovich was testifying at the preliminary hearing of a capital murder charge against Mrs. Castellani's husband, Rene, 40. The hearing continues today.

An inquest jury ruled last December that Mrs. Castellani died from arsenic poisoning and classified her death in Vancouver General Hospital July 11, 1965, as homicide by a person or persons unknown.

Around Town

Job Total Holding Steady

Employment was fairly steady in June compared with the same period last year, the National Employment Service says.

The office was able to fill 707 permanent jobs and 805 casual jobs during the month, leaving the number of unemployed applicants at only 54 more than last year. The annual increase of the work force is about 1,200.

HISTORY OF PAIN

Dr. Moscovich said the 40-year-old woman was admitted to hospital May 24, 1965, with a history of abdominal pain and nausea dating back several months.

He said that when she died he felt he could not give a cause of death.

"I didn't feel I could sign the death warrant," Dr. Moscovich said. "I informed her husband I would require an autopsy to determine the cause of death."

ARSENIC TRACES

Permission for the autopsy was granted by Mr. Castellani, he said, and results showed traces of arsenic in her bloodstream.

At the opening of the hearing, detective Alice W. Reid testified he went to the Castellani home with the accused on Aug. 3, three weeks after Mrs. Castellani's death.

He told the court he found a can of weed killer in a kitchen

Winners of the regular weekly game at the Monday Night Bridge Club were: 1. Verna Acres and Len Stewart, 2. Elizabeth Warren and Joe Lucka, 3. Dennis and Frances McGill, 4. Joan Strain and Tony Mann.

Swap Complete At China Creek

The B.C. government has acquired 61.5 acres of land at China Creek on the Alberni Canal for development of a provincial park.

The land became government property Wednesday when a cabinet order approved a trade with MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Industries Ltd. The government gave 64 acres of Crown land near Hilliers.

'Expensive Business'

Killer Whale Sought

First Pipe Approved For Solids

An Edmonton firm has been given permission by the provincial government to build the first pipeline in British Columbia which will be used for hauling solid materials.

Pacific Diatomite Ltd. was given cabinet approval Wednesday to build a seven-mile pipeline in which crushed, fossilized earth used in the manufacture of fertilizer will be carried by water.

The $700,000 pipeline system will connect a grinding mill at the mine near Quesnel to a steam drying plant at Barlow Station on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, eliminating the need for a 50-mile round trip haul by truck.

Commercial Transport Minister Robert Bonner indicated earlier he would keep an eye on the new technique of moving solids to see if it could be applied to other fields.

There were indications Wednesday night that a hunt has started off the B.C. coast to bring another live killer whale into captivity.

A man who answered the radio telephone at Nanaimo said someone was at the mainland outpost for three or four days last week, apparently looking for a killer whale.

Before leaving without a whale, he told some of the townspeople that he was going to try his luck off Vancouver.

Phil Colonist, Victoria
Thursday, July 14, 1966

Ted Griffin, whose trained killer Nana died last weekend, said in an interview from Seattle he's heard that some people are looking for killers but he has never confirmed it.

"Trying to capture a live killer is a very expensive business and I somehow doubt that there are that many after them," he added.

Mr. Griffin said he has not had any reports of killers being sighted this year.

Law and the Driver

Many motorists are not aware of the clauses of the B.C. Motor Vehicle Act. For their benefit, the Victoria Chamber of Commerce Traffic Safety Committee has prepared a list of traffic regulations with explanations where needed.

Not included are clauses which refer specifically to professional drivers.

Section 151 Clear View Required On Passing

No driver of a vehicle shall drive to or upon the left side of the roadway, other than on a one-way highway, when he has not a clear view of the roadway for a safe distance, having regard for all the circumstances.

Comment

This section is self-explanatory and simply means that unless you are travelling on a one way street, you must keep to the right side of the road unless you have a clear view of the highway for a safe distance. It might be added that the faster you are travelling the longer a safe distance becomes. In other words, if you are travelling at 60 m.p.h. you should be able to see for a distance of at least 4000 feet before driving on the left side of the roadway. If you are only driving at 20 m.p.h. then this distance can be cut to one third of 1000 feet and it normally would be considered a safe distance.

Rhythm Blues Trio Entertain at York's

Recently appearing at Jon York's Music Hall were country music and rhythm and blues trio The Gibson Brothers. The three, who are not brothers and none were born Gibson, got a good response and will be back at the music hall from Vancouver for a future booking.

Gaglardi Air Fleet Faces NDP Storm

Highways Minister Gaglardi's miniature air fleet, operating out of Patricia Bay Airport, has flown into a political thundercloud.

Opposition Leader Strachan said Wednesday the New Democratic Party will make a thorough probe of the air fleet at the next session of the legislature.

Expeditioners from piston to turbo-prop aircraft.

And there were strong reports of a difference of opinion between Mr. Gaglardi and Premier Bennett about the future of the government's air fleet.

The highways minister was not available for comment Tuesday when the Beechcraft rumor became public, and highways officials said they had no idea where he was.

It turned out Mr. Gaglardi had

Regional Bill $23,514,000

Vast Sewer Plan Half-Century View

By TED PULFORD

A vast $23,514,000 scheme for the construction of new sewage disposal facilities in Victoria and throughout the Saanich Peninsula was unveiled Wednesday at a meeting of the Regional District Board.

The most important survey of its kind undertaken in Canada in recent years, it attempts to anticipate the needs of the area until the year 2015, a half-century away.

By that time, it is expected the population will have soared from its present 170,000 to about 420,000. (See also Page 22).

For purposes of planning and development, the area with its 100,000 acres of land and seven municipalities is to be divided into six sewerage areas. Boundaries of the area have been determined on topographical rather than political bases.

Speaking for Associated Engineering Services Ltd., the firm which produced the 227-page study, at a cost of $70,000, Dr. A. Whelan gave cost estimates based upon 1966 dollars.

AREA ONE FIGURES
For Area One, Colwood-Langford-Metchosin, total cost will be $6,479,000 with an average annual cost of $303,000.

Area Two, covering Esquimalt, Colquitz and Cordova Bay, will cost $479,000 a year with a total capital cost of $8,928,000.

Clover Point, to be known as Area Three, will require total capital investment of $2,217,000 over the half century covered by the study. Total average annual cost, over the construction-amortization period, is $129,000.

NEWICKING POINT
For Area Four, covering Newwicking Point and environs, capital cost will be $1,063,000 with the average annual cost set at $60,600.

Central Saanich, represented in the report as Area Five, will be expected to spend $2,844,000 at an annual average cost of $142,500.

Sidney and North Saanich, in Area Six, are faced with a capital expenditure of $1,981,000. Annual cost for the amortization period will be $103,200.

The report went on to make certain important recommendations of a more general nature:

• A number of small sewage treatment plants, serving local subdivisions in central Greater Victoria, now discharge effluent into small streams and ditches. The report urges this practice be abandoned.

• Local authorities should make an all-out effort to trace and eliminate unauthorized connections of storm water to their sanitary systems.

Millers In U.S. Cleared

OTTAWA (CP) — U.S.-owned flour mills in Canada don't sell flour to Cuba as a matter of operating policy, spokesmen for three firms said Wednesday.

They added the decision to ignore the Cuban market was made by executives based in Canada, not on orders from head offices in the U.S.

The issue was raised for the second day in the Commons Wednesday and Trade Minister Waters said he was assured by officials of Quaker Oats, Robin Hood and Pillsbury that they had received no boycott-Cuba instructions from their U.S. parent firms.

Last Exit Obscene

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Court of Appeal Wednesday ruled the book Last Exit to Brooklyn obscene under the Canadian Criminal Code.

The court ruled unanimously the book was obscene under a section which defines an obscene publication as any work in which the dominant characteristic is the undue exploration of sex.

Granny, Family Sail Africa to Australia

DARWIN, Australia (Reuters) — A family of five, including a 92-year-old grandmother, which set out from Kenya in a home-made boat in January, arrived here Wednesday after crossing the Indian Ocean.

Lt.-Cmdr. George Cole, a former British Navy navigator who brought the 40-foot boat all the way from Mombasa, said he thought it was the first time the Indian Ocean had been crossed by a sailing craft from west to east.

Cole, who farmed in East Africa for 34 years before deciding to emigrate to New Zealand with his family, spent 2½ years building the boat.

The vessel carried no radio and made only two stops en route, Cocos Island and Christmas Island. The family spent 30 days sailing from Christmas Island to Darwin, and for three days were beached only 30 miles from Darwin harbor.

Granny Cole, who won a family battle to join in the voyage, said: "I like it when the sea gets rough and pushes me around."

Spy-case hero Mrkva and Czech bug

By ROBERT DONOVAN

WASHINGTON (LAT) — When it comes to espionage, no one can accuse the Czechoslovakian embassy in Washington of failing to think big.

Let the Russians hide microphones behind pictures in the U.S. embassy in Moscow. Let Soviet agents, as was alleged Tuesday, try to pry atomic secrets from a lieutenant-colonel working for the Joint Chiefs of staff.

For the Czechs, however, nothing but the best — chuck the lesser stuff and "bug" the state department itself.

Try to get a secret transmitter into the very office of Under Secretary of State

George Ball and sit back and listen to what he has to say. Slip a listening device under a bookcase in the office of Raymond Lisle, director of the Office of Eastern European Affairs, and tune in on the deepest U.S. secrets about that part of the world.

That is espionage par excellence—when it works. Unfortunately for the Czechs, it didn't.

The U.S. blew the whole plot wide open Wednesday, making two Czech diplomats look like Laurel and Hardy spies and making a hero out of an obscure state department official who duped them by playing the part of a double agent for four years.

Frank Mrkva, who works in the passport division, made perfect fools of Zdenek Pisk, former second secretary of the Czech embassy, and Jiri Opatrný, one of the embassy's attachés.

Together they were accused by the U.S. government of paying Mrkva a total of $3,440 for rather worthless documents and for ostensibly planting listening devices in the state department while the Federal Bureau of Investigation looked on with relief.

When the state department announced the breaking of the case, the accomplishments of this latest bit of attempted spying appeared as follows:

• Opatrný (whose name, ironically, means "careful" in Czech) was declared persona non grata and ordered to leave the U.S. within three days.

• Pisk, now a member of the Czech mission to the UN, found his espionage activities reported to Secretary-General U Thant by the state department.

• Mrkva, a tall, dark-haired, 38-year-old Korean war veteran, who is of Czech descent, was given a spot promotion and recommended for a state department honor award.

• The $3,440 that the Czech embassy presumably

$100,000 Ring Engages May, September

HOLLYWOOD (LAT) — Frank Sinatra and Mia Farrow are engaged, absolutely, positively.

Maureen O'Sullivan, Miss Farrow's mother, made the formal announcement Wednesday in New York, saying "I couldn't be more delighted. Frank is a wonderful person and I know they'll be happy together."

The singer gave Miss Farrow a pear-shaped, nine-carat engagement ring Tuesday and then flew to London to begin work on a film. The ring's cost was estimated at $100,000 or more.

Sinatra is due to finish the film in mid-September and the wedding will take place before Christmas.

Miss Farrow, who recently quit her role as Alison MacKenzie in TV's Peyton Place, turned 21 not long ago. Her mother is 34, and thus four years older than Sinatra, who has a daughter, Nancy, who is several years older than Mia.

It will be his third marriage and her first.

Rumors that the couple were secretly married went around last August when Sinatra chartered a yacht for a month-long cruise in New England waters with Miss Farrow and a large party aboard.

The rumors proved untrue and the voyage was curtailed when a crewman was accidentally drowned.

Sinatra has three children by his first wife, Nancy Barbato, and was briefly and stormily married to Ava Gardner. Mia is the eldest daughter among six children of Miss O'Sullivan and the late writer-producer John Farrow.

Sinatra has been one of the busiest and most eligible dates in the world since he divorced Miss Gardner, but was at the marriage-cum-rumor stage only with dancer Juliet Prowse before Miss Farrow came into his life. Miss Prowse did not want to abandon her career.

Pearson Trips McEachen

Recess Stalls Medicare Bill

By FRASER KELLY, Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The Commons shelved medicare until the fall Wednesday after Prime Minister Pearson reluctantly pulled the rug out from under health and welfare minister Alan MacEachen.

Pensions Boosted Tonight?

OTTAWA — The Commons will likely adjourn tonight not long after Health and Welfare Minister MacEachen makes another promise to the nation's old-age pensioners.

Mr. MacEachen is expected to announce his long awaited program to provide up to $30 a month for anyone 65 or over who is not earning $165 per month.

Mr. MacEachen promised to make the announcement before the summer recess.

After bitter political infighting, Mr. Pearson forced Mr. MacEachen to make a humiliating public retreat in order to protect house leader George McRath.

Now the Commons is almost certain to adjourn today or Friday until the fall. The medicare bill will be given second reading, in which it is debated in principle, when the House reconvenes.

The story behind the decision not to push on is an intriguing insight into the behind-the-scenes manoeuvrings of the men in the nation's high places.

PERSONAL FAVORITE

For weeks Mr. MacEachen, who is well known to be one of Mr. Pearson's personal favorites in the cabinet, has been pushing to have the medicare bill approved before the Commons adjourns for the recess.

During much of the same time, house leader McRath has been wheeling and dealing with opposition parties in an attempt to gain agreement on the date of adjournment.

Conservative house leader Michael Starr and Social Credit leader Bud Olsen both said Wednesday night Mr. McRath promised them the government would not attempt to push the bill through if they would agree on an adjournment.

LAKE MEETING

Mr. MacEachen took his case to Mr. Pearson last Saturday in a meeting between the two at the prime minister's summer home at Harrington Lake.

At that meeting the prime minister promised to back Mr. MacEachen. They agreed the bill was to pass the critical second reading hurdle (approval in principle) before the house adjourned.

Mr. Pearson made the decision after a telephone call in which Mr. McRath assured him he had made no commitment to the official opposition.

NDP ANXIOUS

Mr. MacEachen understood the Conservatives would give only token opposition to the resolution preceding first reading of the bill. He knew the New Democrats were anxious to have the bill approved before the recess.

All along New Democrat Stanley Knowles had told his Liberal counterpart they wouldn't agree to the recess until the bill was approved. In a private meeting Monday he urged Mr. McRath to press on with the bill.

Tuesday Prime Minister Pearson flew to Newfoundland and Mr. McRath went to Prince Edward Island. Mr. MacEachen acted as house leader.

HIS DUTY

After medicare was given first reading, it was his duty to announce the business of the house. He read a list of measures prepared for him by Mr. McRath. Second reading of the medicare bill was not on the list.

Nevertheless Mr. MacEachen

Shots Fired

Sizzling Chicago Riots Again

CHICAGO (AP) — Two major disturbances erupted three miles apart Wednesday night on Chicago's west side, as police and Negroes exchanged gunfire and roving gangs started numerous fires.

Six shots were fired at police from a large public housing project in a near-southwest-side Negro neighborhood, while authorities attempted to halt gangs of Negroes who were throwing rocks and homemade bombs.

Police returned the fire, but apparently no one was hit.

Two shots were fired from an alley at a police car on Roosevelt Road. Officers jumped the car and three homemade bombs were thrown at them. They were not injured.

A few doors away, fire bombs tossed on to the roof of a one-storey garage set the structure afire. It was the fourth fire on the block.

Fire bombs landed in the midst of firemen fighting the blaze.

The violence had been quelled in the neighborhood a few hours earlier as 150 policemen, aided by a rainstorm, drove 1,000 persons into their homes. The violence erupted again after the rain stopped.

Two Negroes were shot and wounded earlier Wednesday night as police attempted to break up rampaging groups.

Dry City Dunked

BOMBAY (AP) — A shower of rain fell on Bombay Wednesday, offering the 4,500,000 inhabitants of India's largest city a brief respite from a long dry spell and raising hopes that the monsoon, now three weeks late, is at last approaching.

There was a downpour in mountains where two of the five major reservoirs that supply Bombay are situated. Evacuation of the city, due to drought, has been feared.

U.S. Toll at Least 91

Lethal Heat Layer Defies Sky Breaks

CHICAGO (AP) — Thunderstorms, tornadoes and even cloudburst rains Wednesday punctured the blanket of oppressive heat that overlaid most of the U.S. east of the Rocky Mountains, but they couldn't break up the three-week heat wave that has cost at least 91 lives.

The blazing sun drove the temperature past 100 for the fifth consecutive day in the St. Louis area, where 69 heat deaths have been recorded since abnormally hot weather set in June 20, the day before the official advent of summer.

For other sections of the Midwest and South, it was the sixth straight day of 100-plus heat.

In New York, the temperature hit 101 degrees, breaking by eight degrees the July 13 record set in 1954. It was the fourth time in little more than two weeks that the mercury had topped 100 degrees in the country's largest city.

The End For Jackie?

TORONTO (CP) — Jackie Parker, plagued by knee injuries, asked Toronto Argonauts for a week off workouts Tuesday amid growing speculation he will retire after 12 seasons as a top line star in the Canadian Football League.

Parker sought and received the rest period from Argos coach Bob Shaw to see if his knee problems will respond. He had two knee operations since last season and had hoped the workouts would strengthen his knee.

But the knee was reported to be inflamed this week.

Parker, who came to Canada in 1954 from Mississippi State University, has scored more points than any other player in CFL history—744.

He began as a halfback at Edmonton but in his second season moved to quarterback. He was traded to Toronto prior to the 1963 season and since has seen service in both the offensive and defensive backfield.

Giant Boss Charges Overload

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Manager Herman Franks of San Francisco Giants is unhappy that his two top pitchers, Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry, were both used in the All-Star game, the San Francisco Examiner reported today.

National defeated the Americans 2-1 in a 10-inning game.

Franks worked as the first base coach in the game with the National League squad managed by Walter Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"He had eight pitchers," Franks was quoted from St. Louis by Examiner baseball writer Harry Jupiter.

"They're all All-Stars. There is no reason Alston had to use both of mine. That burned me up and I told him so."

San Francisco, leading the league with a one-game margin over the Pittsburgh Pirates, opens a three-game series at Philadelphia tonight. The Giants then go to Pittsburgh for a Sunday double-header and a Sunday game on Monday night.

Baby Rocks Eyeing Extra Game

Victoria Junior Shamrocks meet Nanaimo Juniors in an Island Senior "B" Lacrosse League game tonight at Memorial Arena at 8:30.

A win for the Shamrocks, who have already beaten Nanaimo twice this season, would clinch for them the extra game when it comes to the Island Junior playoffs. The two Junior teams are playing for practice in the Senior "B" League, but at the end of the season, they'll play off for the Island Junior championship.

Winner will play the mainland champ for the B.C. title, with the B.C. winner meeting the east for the Minto Cup. The Canadian championship will be in the west this year.

BGE Trials For Three Victorians

Three Victorians are going to the Canadian track and field championships and British Empire Games trials at Edmonton this weekend.

John Cliff, Bob McLaren and Norm Patenaude, all of the Spartan-Olympian team, will compete in the two-day competition.

Cliff will run in the six-mile race, Patenaude in the three and six-mile events, and McLaren in the 440 yards.

Trawick Signs

MONTREAL (CP) — Herb Trawick, one of the original U.S. imports to Canadian football 20 years ago and a stand-out lineman with Montreal Alouettes for a decade, has signed as line coach with Montreal Beavers of the Continental Football League.

Cool Spot Busiest in Warm Duncan

Most popular spot in town for Duncan youngsters these warm days is large wading pool at Kinsmen Park, where playground supervisor Roberta Sutton looks after estimated 200 children every day. Most of swimmers prefer pool but a few spend much of day playing with games near poolside.

Flowers Hide Integral Damage

Don't Touch That Dial! It's a Blooming Phone

By MARY BACKLUND
GALIANO Flowers in a telephone booth? Millions of them, so many that no one could tell whether there was a telephone there or not.

This is what the repair man, Stan Duncan, found in one of the pay booths on a recent trip over to Galiano Island from Salt Spring Island to check a trouble call.

Mr. Duncan, the repair man for B.C. Telephone, has his main office at Ganges, on Salt

Spring Island, and comes over by small boat to check troubles on the telephone lines when necessary.

He has found many amusing things when he is fixing this type of telephone, but this is the first time he has found masses of flowers all over the booth.

He said they were artistically arranged, wild flowers in the nickel, dime and quarter slots, even carefully put in the dial system.

There was no damage to be seen, after Mr. Duncan cleared all of the flowers.

But he soon found there had been some damage to the telephone. Two integral parts were missing.

The transmitter capsule and the receiving capsule had been taken, and the covers put back in the receiver, rendering the phone unusable.

Mr. Duncan replaced these parts, and no further trouble was found.

He said he was really quite amused rather than angry when he found the booth covered in flowers. Now he wonders what he will find next.

Campbell River Council

Run-In Expected, Runway Delayed

CAMPBELL RIVER — New councillor Kenneth Ford's expected first run-in with Reeve Jack Lee took some of the council meeting spotlight Monday away from bad news about the hoped-for 800-foot airport runway extension.

Coun. Ford, elected last month, asked that more council meetings be opened to the public.

NOTHING TO HIDE

"Do you think there is any object in making these things public?" the reeve replied. "Council has nothing to hide... you're going to get me in a lot of hot water and I think it's intentional."

Coun. Ford's rejoinder: "If we gave out the facts, there wouldn't be any misinformation."

The federal transport department advised council it won't be possible to build the runway extension this summer, and a call for tenders will be deferred until possibly August of 1967. The reason presumably is the federal construction slowdown.

Council wants the extension to allow for DC-6s, which now stop at Comox and Port Hardy. Council was told the Campbell River airport is doing more civilian business than Comox now.

BLEAK PROSPECTS

Blair McLean told councillors completion of 15-month-old talks with the transport department to have it take over the airport would mean "bleak" prospects for a new terminal building.

He thought the building would be better and quicker done by the municipality and recommended Campbell River continue to operate the airport and re-examine last fall's approved plans for a terminal.

Council accepted the 1966 over-all sewer plan from Russell Potter and Associates, but Coun. Ford suggested the public study it first. He said they might want sewage treatment plans instead of the three outfalls.

Coun. Ernie Lawson replied: "If we wish to fight the pulp mill over their pollution, we must clean up our backyard first. Their pollution is killing fish... ours isn't."

Coun. Lawson also reported three new signs on the highway south of town, saying: "This is just the beginning. There'll be a dozen more, you can depend on it, if something isn't done now."

The decision was to study the sign bylaw before the next meeting and draw up a new one, if necessary.

Council also decided to advertise for a recreation superintendent at a salary of $7,000 to $9,000, to start a balanced program in conjunction with the new parks and recreation commission.

Anti-Pollution Plea Handed to Ottawa

A brief calling for more research on how to prevent pollution by mining operations was presented to federal Mines Minister Pepin in Ottawa Wednesday by Mines Minister Brothers.

The brief, presented on behalf of Canada's provincial ministers of mines, contained numerous technical recommendations which came out of the 22nd annual provincial ministers' conference in Victoria last September.

OTHER MINISTERS

Mr. Brothers was accompanied by Mines Minister G. C. Wardrop of Ontario, Mines Minister W. R. Duffie of New Brunswick and deputy minister of natural resources P. E. Auger of Quebec, when he submitted the brief.

Recommendations concerning the pollution of streams and lakes by mine waters stated in part:

"There is need of factual specific information concerning the quantity and nature of pollution attributable to mining operations and the effects thereof."

"Measures for control must be based on those data," the brief stated.

"Research on prevention, hope the research will be measures... could make very useful contributions and we concern."

Swap Complete At China Creek

The B.C. government has acquired 61.5 acres of land at China Creek on the Alberni Canal for development of a provincial park.

The land became government property Wednesday when a cabinet order approved a trade with MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Industries Ltd. The government gave 64 acres of Crown land near Hilliers.

In exchange, it received waterfront property on the east shore of the canal five miles from Port Alberni.

Parks director Harold McWilliams said an access road has been completed and a boat launching ramp will be built in the park. A campsite also will eventually be built there.

Negotiations for the land trade required six years before the deal was completed by cabinet approval.

Tel Boss Impressed By Island Expansion

NANAIMO — The head of B.C. Telephone, J. Ernest Richardson, was in Nanaimo Wednesday on a tour of his company's facilities.

"I know the Island is developing," he said, "because we are spending nearly $9,000,000 to expand our facilities on Vancouver Island this year—but it becomes even more impressive when I see it on the spot."

In the Nanaimo area, B.C. Tel is spending $2,300,000.

"We have to spend this kind of money to keep up with the growing demands for communications services," he added.

Cardboard Pushouts

Ferry Models Nanaimo Idea

NANAIMO — Travellers on the B.C. ferry system are able to buy a cardboard pushout model of the ferry they are travelling on.

They have been designed by Nanaimo resident, Gordon Theodrom.

It was two years ago this summer that Mr. Theodrom started on his drawing.

To ensure the models were exact replicas of the real thing, he obtained engineering prints from Victoria, and the actual drawings took six weeks to complete in Indian ink.

Trial models were made up and some adjustments had to be made to provide a good fit when the ferries are assembled. Printing and die cutting started last February and Mr. Theodrom tried to make sure as much as was done locally as possible.

Die cutting, he found, had to be done in Vancouver, but actual printing took place in Nanaimo.

The models are sold on all B.C. ferries and at two commercial outlets in town.

Pretty Co-ed Enjoys Being Whistle Punk

By ANGES FLETT

NANAIMO — Leigh Duncan is probably the only pretty co-ed whistle punk in the province or in the whole of Canada for that matter!

UBC students are engaged in varied jobs throughout the province during their summer recess, but the job of whistle punk, for a girl student is one of the most unusual!

Leigh will be entering third year at UBC this fall. For the past two summers she has carried on the job of whistle punk very successfully! There is only one trouble with the job, it has no future. The job of whistle punk may soon be extinct!

The whistle punk is being replaced by the talkie-tooter, an electronic device worn on the belt of the chokerman. When a log is ready to be yarded in, after the choker is set, the chokerman just presses the talkie-tooter. It sends an electronic signal to the receiving set on the donkey and sounds a whistle.

The whistle-punk, used throughout the last half-century of logging in B.C. was usually a young fellow, just learning the art of logging. He was referred to as a punk, and all he did was blow a whistle, hence the name whistle-punk.

However the job is not that easy. It demands care and attention as the lives of the chokermen and others in the woods often depends on the correct signal by the whistle punk. Whether the mainline was to be pulled in, or the haulback to go out... or stop all operations depended on the correct number of whistles.

The actual whistle is a little device... fastened to a half-mile or so of line. The end of the line is connected to a small battery box on the donkey.

When the whistle device is pressed by the whistle punk, it sends a signal through the battery box which then blows a whistle high atop the donkey.

Leigh also has done some logs scaling and still does so when it is needed. But she enjoys the job of whistle punk especially the pay she says.

Now that the IWA strike settlement has given male and female equal pay in the logging industry she makes top money for any female worker — about $20 a day!

No wonder she likes the job. Leigh says for that pay she'll even put up with being the only female in the woods surrounded by rough and ready loggers.

She said the loggers don't seem to mind having a girl hanging around all day, although they admitted it did crimp their style of conversation a little.

She also complains this year about having to work so much in the rain. But rain or wind or shine she has to take her place with loggers getting up at 6 a.m., starting for the woods at 7 a.m., a 20-mile rough ride up the mountain to the logging show, a long hard day, but so different from those at UBC. Her dad is a partner in Duncan and Campbell Logging Co. (Ltd.), and contracts for MacMillan Bloedel.

Courtenay

Lagoon Need Blow To Trustees

COURTENAY — Sewage disposal and consultant services for the cafeteria of the proposed senior secondary-vocational school faced trustees this week.

The school board originally planned to use the existing septic tank on the 92-acre site but a meeting with Dr. G. A. Gibson, director of the Upper Island Health Unit, Hugh Hart, sanitary inspector, and Bill Moore, city clerk-administrator, showed this would not be possible.

Two acres

Stan Rowe, maintenance supervisor, said a probable solution would be a two-acre lagoon, to be used until Courtenay extends its sewer lines to include Sandwick.

Board Chairman Brian Walker asked: "Will that stink like Courtenay's does?"

Mr. Rowe replied: "Probably at times."

The chairman said this was certainly a blow, especially since the anticipated lagoon cost would be $7,000, which was not covered in the original estimates for the project.

CONSULTANT NEEDED

Mr. Rowe also advised the board the services of a consultant would be required when equipment of the cafeteria is to be purchased.

He said neither he nor the secretary-treasurer had the knowledge required to purchase the proper equipment. He suggested Carl Severson, a man with wide experience, be retained by the board.

ASK FOR COST

Trustees finally agreed to ask Mr. Severson the cost of his services.

The board received six tenders for supply of fuel oil to various schools and the contract was given to Shell Oil. The company cut its price of last year, 15.17 cents, with a bid of 15.13 cents a gallon.

Council Seeks RCMP Help With Old Car Problem

LADYSMITH — Council here has decided to get in touch with the local RCMP detachment in an effort to solve the problem of abandoned cars within the town.

Ald. Bernard Churchill said "in one case the owner is known and if public works crews were to tow the car away it might suddenly get some value."

Ald. John Cochrane said "we should take some action on it" and Mayor Kay Grouhel told council the town has an old bylaw which covers this particular point and forbids people to store anything on town property.

Mayor Grouhel told council she has contacted four service clubs in Ladysmith which might be able to raise some money toward the Vancouver Island camp for special children which will be held at Shawmigan Lake next month.

Mayor Grouhel said in Ladysmith two children might be eligible and the cost per child is $175.

It is hoped the parents will be able to contribute a portion of the cost.

Legal Aid This Year

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Arthur Wishart says Ontario's new legal aid plan should be in operation by the end of this year. The plan, passed at the last session of the legislature, provides for government payment of lawyers' fees for persons who can't afford them. Mr. Wishart told representatives of the Law Society of Ontario Tuesday that a provincial director will be appointed within the next few days to run the scheme.

Bridge Results

Winners of the regular weekly game at the Monday Masters Duplicate Bridge Club were: 1. Valma Arnes and Edith Stewart; 2. Elizabeth Warren and Joan Lucas; 3. Irene and Fraser McCall; 4. Joan Strank and Tony Marsh.

The mayor said about 20 children from the island will attend the camp. She was recently elected vice-president of the Vancouver Island camp for special children organization.

Several months ago Ladysmith town council turned down a request for financial assistance from that group because "it is not the policy of the town to contribute to such a cause."

Council also:

- Referred back to the architect a proposed renovation project for city hall that would cost $4,000. Hoping the cost could be lowered.
- Voiced no objection to help the diamond-improvement area when an emergency with their water system arises.

- Was informed by the provincial highways department the junction of Bayview and the Trans-Canada Highway will be improved as soon as crews are available.

- Was told by Ald. Robert Stillin the chlorination system for the town's water supply will cost $3,700.

No Blame Attached In Logger's Death

TOFINO — Police here have now released the name of the faller killed at the McMillan Bloedel Kennedy Lake operation on Monday. He was Michael Allen Marrs, 35, married with two small children. An inquest held Tuesday brought in a verdict of accidental death with no blame attached to anyone.

Mr. Reid explained to catch the 18-pound, 17-pound and 13-pound spring salmon, he used a Strip Tease lure. He made the big catch within two hours.—(Andy Bigg)

Nanaimo Biologist Heads New Institute

OTTAWA — Dr. W. E. Johnson, 43, has been appointed director of the new Fisheries Research Board of Canada's Nanaimo Biological Station. Dr. Johnson is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin where he received his master's degree in biology in 1952 and the degree of doctor of philosophy in 1954. He was senior author of a paper on the migration of young sockeye salmon, and the biological productivity of lakes. He was senior author of a paper on the migration of young sockeye which, in 1963, was selected as the year's outstanding paper in fish ecology and in 1945-55 on a post-doctoral fellowship awarded by the North American Wildlife Society.

Gaglardi Air Fleet Faces NDP Storm

Highways Minister Gaglardi's miniature air fleet, operating out of Patricia Bay Airport, has flown into a political thundercloud.

Opposition Leader Strachan said Wednesday the New Democratic Party will make a thorough probe of the air fleet at the next session of the legislature.

His announcement came in the wake of reports that Mr. Gaglardi intends to convert four more Beechcraft

Expeditioners from piston to turbo-prop aircraft.

And there were strong reports of a difference of opinion between Mr. Gaglardi and Premier Bennett about the future of the government's air fleet.

The highways minister was not available for comment Tuesday when the Beechcraft rumor became public, and highways officials said they had no idea where he was.

It turned out Mr. Gaglardi had

By TED PULFORD

A vast $23,514,000 scheme for the construction of new sewage disposal facilities in Victoria and throughout the Saanich Peninsula, was unveiled Wednesday at a meeting of the Regional District Board.

The most important survey of its kind undertaken in Canada in recent years, it attempts to anticipate the needs of the area until the year 2015, a half-century away.

By that time, it is expected the population will have soared from its present 170,000 to about 420,000.

For purposes of planning and development, the area with its 100,000 acres of land and seven municipalities is to be divided into six sewerage areas. Boundaries of the area have been determined on topographical rather than political bases.

Speaking for Associated Engineering Services Ltd., the firm which produced the 231-page study, at a cost of $70,000.

Millers In U.S. Cleared

OTTAWA (CP) — U.S.-owned flour mills in Canada don't sell flour to Cuba as a matter of operating policy, spokesmen for three firms said Wednesday. They added the decision to ignore the Cuban market was made by executives based in Canada, not on orders from head offices in the U.S.

The issue was raised for the second day in the Commons Wednesday after Trade Minister Waters said he was assured by officials of Quaker Oats, Ralston and Pillsbury that they had received no boycott-Cuba instructions from their U.S. parent firms.

Finance Minister Sharp said the U.S.-owned flour mills do not object to exporting to Russia.

Last Exit Obscene

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Court of Appeal Wednesday ruled the book Last Exit to Brooklyn obscene under the Canadian Criminal Code. The court ruled unanimously the book was obscene under a section which defines an obscene publication as any work in which the dominant characteristic is the undue exploration of sex.

Czech Laurel and Hardy Tried Biggest Spy Bug

By ROBERT DONOVAN

WASHINGTON (LAT)

When it comes to espionage, no one can accuse the Czechoslovakian embassy in Washington of failing to think big.

Let the Russians hide microphones behind pictures in the U.S. embassy in Moscow. Let Soviet agents, as was alleged Tuesday, try to pry atomic secrets from a lieutenant-colonel working for the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

For the Czechs, however, nothing but the best — chuck the lesser stuff and "bug" the state department itself.

Try to get a secret transmitter into the very office of Under Secretary of State

George Ball and sit back and listen to what he has to say.

Slip a listening device under a bookcase in the office of Raymond Lide, director of the Office of Eastern European Affairs, and tune in on the deepest U.S. secrets about that part of the world.

That is espionage par excellence — when it works. Unfortunately for the Czechs, it didn't.

The U.S. blew the whole plot wide open Wednesday, making two Czech diplomats look like Laurel and Hardy spies and making a hero out of an obscure state department official who duped them by playing the part of a double agent for four years.

Frank Mrkva, who works in the passport division, made perfect fools of Zdenek Pisk, former second secretary of the Czech embassy, and Jiri Opatrný, one of the embassy's attaches.

Together they were accused by the U.S. government of paying Mrkva a total of $3,440 for rather worthless documents and for ostensibly plotting listening devices in the state department while the Federal Bureau of Investigation looked on with relief.

When the state department announced the breaking of the case, the accomplishments of this latest bit of attempted spying appeared as follows:

● Opatrný (whose name, ironically, means "careful" in Czech) was declared persona non grata and ordered to leave the U.S. within three days.

● Pisk, now a member of the Czech mission to the UN, found his espionage activities reported to Secretary-General U Thant by the state department.

● Mrkva, a tall, dark-haired, 38-year-old Koréan war veteran, who is of Czech descent, was given a spot promotion and recommended for a state department honor award.

● The $3,440 that the Czech embassy presumably

$100,000 Ring Engages May, September

HOLLYWOOD (LAT) — Frank Sinatra and Mia Farrow are engaged, absolutely, positively.

Maureen O'Sullivan, Miss Farrow's mother, made the formal announcement Wednesday in New York, saying "I couldn't be more delighted. Frank is a wonderful person and I know they'll be happy together."

The singer gave Miss Farrow a pear-shaped, nine-carat engagement ring Tuesday and then flew to London to begin work on a film. The ring's cost was estimated at $100,000 or more.

Sinatra is due to finish the film in mid-September and the wedding will take place before Christmas.

Miss Farrow, who recently quit her role as Alison MacKenzie in TV's Peyton Place, turned 21 not long ago. Her mother is 54, and thus four years older than Sinatra, who has a daughter, Nancy, who is several years older than Mia. It will be his third marriage and her first.

Rumors that the couple were secretly married went around last August when Sinatra chartered a yacht for a month-long cruise in New England waters with Miss Farrow and a large party aboard.

The rumors proved untrue and the voyage was curtailed when a crewman was accidentally drowned.

Sinatra has three children by his first wife, Nancy Barbato, and was briefly and stormily married to Ava Gardner. Mia is the eldest daughter among six children of Miss O'Sullivan and the late writer-producer John Farrow.

Sinatra has been one of the busiest and most eligible dates in the world since he divorced Miss Gardner, but was at the marriage-rumor stage only with dancer Juliet Prowse before Miss Farrow came into his life. Miss Prowse did not want to abandon her career.

Granny, Family Sail Africa to Australia

DARWIN, Australia (Reuters) — A family of five, including a 92-year-old grandmother, which set out from Kenya in a home-made boat in January, arrived here Wednesday after crossing the Indian Ocean.

Lt.-Cmdr. George Cole, a former British Navy navigator who brought the 40-foot boat all the way from Mombasa, said he thought it was the first time the Indian Ocean had been crossed by a sailing craft from west to east.

Cole, who farmed in East Africa for 34 years before deciding to emigrate to New Zealand with his family, spent 2½ years building the boat.

The vessel carried no radio and made only two stops en route, Cocos Island and Christmas Island. The family spent 30 days sailing from Christmas Island to Darwin, and for three days were beached only 30 miles from Darwin harbor.

Granny Cole, who won a family battle to join the voyage, said: "I like it when the sea gets rough and pushes me around."

MEDICARE DELAYED

By FRASER KELLY, Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The Commons shelved medicare until the fall Wednesday after Prime Minister Pearson reluctantly pulled the rug out from under Health and Welfare Minister Alan MacEachen.

Pensions Boosted Tonight?

OTTAWA — The Commons will likely adjourn tonight not long after Health and Welfare Minister MacEachen makes another promise to the nation's old-age pensioners.

Mr. MacEachen is expected to announce his long awaited program to provide up to $28 a month for anyone 65 or over who is not earning $100 per month.

Mr. MacEachen promised to make the announcement before the summer recess.

After bitter political infighting, Mr. Pearson forced Mr. MacEachen to make a humiliating public retreat in order to protect House leader George McElraith.

Now the Commons is almost certain to adjourn today or Friday until the fall. The medicare bill will be given second reading, in which it is debated in principle, when the House reconvenes.

The story behind the decision not to push on is an intriguing insight into the behind-the-scenes manoeuvrings of the men in the nation's high places.

PERSONAL FAVORITE

For weeks Mr. MacEachen, who is well known to be one of Mr. Pearson's personal favorites in the cabinet, has been pushing to have the medicare bill approved before the Commons adjourns for the recess.

During much of the same time, House leader McElraith has been wheeling and dealing with opposition parties in an attempt to gain agreement on the date of adjournment.

Conservative House leader Michael Starr and Social Credit leader Bud Olsen both said Wednesday night Mr. McElraith promised them the government would not attempt to push the bill through if they would agree on an adjournment.

LAKE MEETING

Mr. MacEachen took his case to Mr. Pearson last Saturday in a meeting between the two at the prime minister's summer home at Harrington Lake.

At that meeting the prime minister promised to back Mr. MacEachen. They agreed the bill was to pass the critical second reading hurdle (approval in principle) before the House adjourned.

Mr. Pearson made the decision after a telephone call in which Mr. McElraith assured him he had made no commitment to the official opposition.

NDP ANXIOUS

Mr. MacEachen understood the Conservatives would give only token opposition to the resolution preceding first reading of the bill. He knew the New Democrats were anxious to have the bill approved before the recess.

All along New Democrat Stanley Knowles had told his Liberal counterpart they wouldn't agree to the recess until the bill was approved. In a private meeting Monday he urged Mr. McElraith to press on with the bill.

HIS DUTY

Tuesday Prime Minister Pearson flew to Newfoundland and Mr. McElraith went to Prince Edward Island. Mr. MacEachen acted as House leader.

After medicare was given first reading, it was his duty to announce the business of the House. He read a list of measures prepared for him by Mr. McElraith. Second reading of the medicare bill was not on the list.

Nevertheless Mr. MacEachen

Sizzling Chicago Riots Again

CHICAGO (AP) — Two major disturbances erupted three miles apart Wednesday night on Chicago's west side, as police and Negroes exchanged gunfire and roving gangs started numerous fires.

Six shots were fired at police from a large public housing project in a near-southwest-side Negro neighborhood, while authorities attempted to halt gangs of Negroes who were throwing rocks and homemade bombs.

Police returned the fire, but apparently no one was hit.

Two shots were fired from an alley at a police car on Roosevelt Road. Officers jumped the car and threw a one-storey garage set the structure afire. It was the fourth fire on the block.

Fire bombs landed in the midst of firemen fighting the blaze.

The violence had been quelled in the neighborhood a few hours earlier as 150 policemen, aided by a rainstorm, drove 1,000 persons into their homes. The violence erupted again after the rain stopped.

Two Negroes were shot and wounded earlier Wednesday night as police attempted to break up rampaging gangs.

Dry City Dunked

BOMBAY (AP) — A shower of rain fell on Bombay Wednesday, offering the 4,500,000 inhabitants of India's largest city a brief respite from a long dry spell and raising hopes that the monsoon, now three weeks late, is at last approaching.

There was a downpour in mountains where two of the five major reservoirs that supply Bombay are situated. Evacuation of the city, due to drought, has been feared.

U.S. Toll at Least 91

Lethal Heat Layer Defies Sky Breaks

CHICAGO (AP) — Thunderstorms, tornadoes and even cloudburst rains Wednesday punctured the blanket of oppressive heat that overlaid most of the U.S. east of the Rocky Mountains, but they couldn't break up the three-week heat wave that has cost at least 91 lives.

The blazing sun drove the temperature past 100 for the fifth consecutive day in the St. Louis area, where 68 heat deaths have been recorded since an abnormally hot weather set in June 20, the day before the official advent of summer.

For other sections of the Midwest and South, it was the sixth straight day of 100-plus heat.

In New York, the temperature hit 101 degrees, breaking by eight degrees the July 13 record set in 1954. It was the fourth time in little more than two weeks that the mercury had topped 100 degrees in the country's largest city.
